-Security Board Record Made Public- Oppenheimer Labeled Both Patriot And Spy

Attorneys Ask AEC To Clear Scientist
Declared Security Risk By 2-1
Division Of Investigators

WASHINGTON (AP)—Atomic scientist J. Robert Oppenheimer was vainly pictured at his recent security hearing as a probable Russian agent and as a patriotic American, a transcript of the proceedings showed Tuesday night.

The praise for Oppenheimer came from Gordon Dean, former chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission. The condemnation came from William L. Borden, former executive secretary of the Senate-House Atomic Committee.

The two men were among many who testified pro and con in the lengthy hearing conducted by a special AEC Security Board. The board ruled on May 27 that Oppenheimer was a loyal American, but decided 2-1 that he was a security risk not entitled to access to atomic data.

Oppenheimer, a principal builder of the atomic bomb, has denied he ever was a Communist, although he said he did have Red association in the past. He has expressed complete devotion to America, and Dean backed him in these words.

"He is a very human man, a sensitive man, a very well educated man, a man of complete integrity in my association with him. And a very devoted man to his country, and certainly to the commission. No question of these things in my mind."

Borden read a letter he said he wrote to FBI Chief J. Edgar Hoover Nov. 7, 1953. The letter related a series of charges against Oppenheimer, most of which had been brought out—and denied by Oppenheimer—but which Borden said justified the belief that Oppenheimer willingly spied for the Soviets.

Borden said of Oppenheimer: "He had no close friends except Communists."

"He had at least one Communist mistress."

"He belonged only to Communist organizations, apart from professional affiliations."

"He was in frequent contact with Soviet espionage agents."

SAYS HE HIRED REDS

Borden also said his opinion that Oppenheimer "more probably than not is an agent of the Soviet Union" was based on "evidence indicating" he hired a number of Communists for the A-bomb project, and supported the H-bomb until an A-bomb was dropped on Hiroshima "on which day he personally urged each senior individual working in this field to desist."

Borden's letter was admitted to the record over the objections of counsel for Oppenheimer, who protested against bringing in a witness "to make this kind of an accusation not dreamed of in this proceeding up to this point."

The 92-page volume of the transcript of the Security Board hearings had been distributed for publication at noon EDT Wednesday. However, radio commentator Fulton Lewis Jr., broadcast excerpts Tuesday night, saying he was "deliberately violating" the restriction as to time of publication.

Noting that Oppenheimer's lawyers already had made some document texts public and that they had issued what he called "propaganda statements," Lewis said:

"I, for one, am tired of the phony business of reports and documents being leaked to a selected few motley collection of the left wing press, while the rest of the news world toddles along behind."

After Lewis' had made his national broadcast, wire services released their own accounts. Lewis dealt in his broadcast with a section of the transcript in which Oppenheimer admitted he had told some lies to an Army Intelligence officer in 1943 about his association with the Soviet Union. Oppenheimer said he had lied "because I was an idiot," had already been summarized in the board report released and published June 1.

In another facet of the case, lawyers for Oppenheimer released a brief they had submitted to the AEC June 7, asking the commission to clear Oppenheimer for work on atomic projects on the grounds that he is "unquestionably loyal," discreet and has "rendered great public service."

The lawyers, headed by Lloyd K. Garrison, were asking the AEC to overlook the 2-1 vote of the board finding Oppenheimer was a security risk.

"Dragged Feet" Charge

Among the charges which led to the security hearing was one that Oppenheimer dragged his feet on development of the hydrogen bomb.

He headed a group of scientists who unanimously advised the AEC in 1949 against proceeding with a full-scale effort to develop the hydrogen bomb.

Asked about his views, Dr. Oppenheimer told the Security Board he had "grave concern and anxiety," but denied he had "a moral revulsion against the production of such a dreadful weapon."

The scientist at one point asked: "How could anyone not have qualms about it? I know of no one who doesn't have qualms about it?"

At another point, referring to the H-bomb, Dr. Oppenheimer said "even (though) from a technical point of view it was a sweet and lovely and beautiful job, I have still thought it was a dreadful weapon."

But after President Truman decided in January, 1950, to go ahead with the H-bomb project, Oppenheimer said he never asked reconsideration of the decision, that he never opposed the project further, and he considered his statements "essentially neutral."

Question as to whether his statements discouraged scientists from working on the project, Dr. Oppenheimer said he did not know.

LOYD GRANDSINGER

Grandsinger Murder Trial Goes To Jury

VALENTINE, Neb. (AP)—The first degree murder trial of Loyd Grandsinger, who is charged in the fatal shooting of State Trooper Marvin Hansen, went to the jury at 4:30 p.m. Tuesday.

At the conclusion of final arguments by the prosecution, District Judge E. L. Meyer of Alliance dealt at length in his instruction to all elements involved in the evidence.

Among charges given the jury were guilty of first degree murder, guilty of second degree murder, guilty of third degree murder, guilty of manslaughter, innocent and innocent by reason of insanity.

Denial Given

Grandsinger denied during the trial that he killed the patrolman. He maintained that he was unable to remember all that transpired the night Hansen was killed.

Prosecutors Rush Clarke of North Platte and W. B. Quigley of Valentine sought the death penalty.

A crowded courtroom was on hand for the final instructions. The trial was in the ninth day Tuesday.

Bullet Killed Hansen

Hansen was killed with a single bullet the morning of April 9 as he raced on foot through the darkness in pursuit of a man who fled from one of two cars halted at a road block. Officers had been tipped one of the cars was stolen.

Leon Grandsinger, 33, had surrendered when the cars were halted and was being handcuffed when the shooting occurred.

Several hours later, Loyd, 22, ragged and dirty, was fished from the Niobrara River near Sparks, Neb., about 20 miles east of Valentine and not far from the shooting scene, by members of a posse.

Man Survives

Tangle With Jet Bomber Engine

MARIETTA, Ga. (AP)—A flight line mechanic of the Lockheed Aircraft Corp. here was sucked head and arms into the air inlet section of a huge and powerful jet engine and survived.

The power of the engine, one of six on a giant B-47 bomber, was cut and a fellow workman yanked F. L. Morgan, 39, to safety by his leg.

The mechanic and an engineer were checking the engine for vibration. Morgan had signaled the engineer to cut the engine but as he turned there was enough suction left to drag him in.

The power was quickly shut off completely and the fellow workman hauled the mechanic out of danger.

Lead Price Dips

Cops Pinch Omaha Judge Again—'Dog's Fault'

OMAHA (AP)—Municipal Judge Lester M. Palmer, arrested for the second time in six months, Tuesday blamed his latest trouble with the law on the fact his dog bit a conservation officer.

Back on the bench some six hours after his release on bond on four misdemeanor charges, including drunkenness, in nearby Council Bluffs, Iowa, Judge Palmer said he "could not help but believe" that his dog's biting an officer "influenced his attitude in the handling of this case."

The dog seems "to hate a uniform" and has snapped at mailmen and garbage men in the past, Judge Palmer said.

Judge Palmer was arrested in Manawa State Park at the edge of Council Bluffs Monday night and charged with being drunk, drinking in a public park, possessing liquor without Iowa tax stamps, and letting a dog run loose in a park. He was freed on $710 bond and will be arraigned in municipal court next Tuesday.

Conservation Officer Ward Garrett was bitten by the dog and had to have medical attention. The dog was impounded for rabies and investigation.

Judge Palmer's companion, Mrs. Helen Hines, 43, Omaha, was charged with being drunk. She forfeited a $10 bond.

Three municipal judges, meeting Tuesday afternoon, announced that:

1. Judge Palmer would be sent from courtroom 1 to courtroom 2, where Presiding Judge Patrick Lynch can avoid giving him any cases.

2. The judges will ask a meeting with the executive and municipal court committees of the Omaha Bar Association to determine what further action can be taken.

Besides Judge Lynch, those attending the meeting were Judges Frank Nitz and Patrick O'Connor.

Last December Judge Palmer served five days in jail after conviction on a charge of leaving the scene of a property damage accident. Prior to that time he had been traffic court judge here but following his conviction he was reassigned to civil cases.

The Omaha Bar Association asked his resignation, but he refused. Nebraska statutes make no provision for removal of an Omaha municipal judge from office.

Garrett and Conservation Officer Harold Borwick, the park custodian, said they arrested Judge Palmer and Mrs. Hines as a card table was being set up in the picnic area at Manawa State Park. They said the couple had three quarts of gin, three empty pop bottles, 10 cans of cold beer and an empty fifth gin bottle.

In his written report Council Bluffs Police Capt. Ben Montgomery said: "This man in the opinion of officials at the station, was very drunk." The report also described Mrs. Hines as "quite drunk."

Judge Palmer said the two were merely picnicking in the park. He said five other persons had been with them.

The card table, he said, was "not even set up but was leaning against the tree with the legs still folded. He said he and Mrs. Hines were planning to play some cards. The two were arrested about 8:15 p.m. They were released on bond six hours later.

Donald C. Hofsord, president of the Omaha Bar Association, said its members are "vitaly interested" in the latest Palmer incident which he said has "undoubtedly the action taken in December by the executive council" (in asking Palmer to resign).

—Historic Conference Arranged— Ike And Churchill To Confer June 25

Conflicting Policies On Dealing With Red Aggression Will Be Weighed In Washington

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Churchill will sit down in the White House June 25 in a historic conference designed to harmonize the two nations' conflicting policies on coping with Communist aggression.

Announcement that the 79-year-old British prime minister would come here for the week-end beginning June 25 was made both at the White House and in London.

Within minutes after the announcement, Secretary of State Dulles expressed the hope it would lead to new progress in his drive to enlist Britain and other Western countries in a "united front" to block Red expansion in southeast Asia.

Alternating Next
Dulles, who is to attend the three-day meeting along with British Foreign Minister Anthony Eden, said Britain apparently feels the possibilities for negotiating an Indo-China peace have been exhausted at Geneva and that alternatives now can be considered.

Every critical world problem will be discussed at the high level meeting, he said, including the possibility of some new plan for adding German troops to Western defenses in Europe.

Dulles acknowledged that the current French government crisis, brought about by the collapse of the government headed by Joseph Laniel, threatens new delay in long-standing plans to create a new six-nation European Army which would include Germany.

The White House in its terse announcement gave no hint about the specific problems to be reviewed at the week-end talks which bring together Eisenhower and Churchill for the first time since they met at Bermuda early last December.

Growing Differences
Responsible diplomats said the main purpose of the conference will be to try to patch up the growing differences between Britain and the United States over Far Eastern policy.

The United States has been trying to build up a Far Eastern alliance against Communism, but Britain has preferred to wait until it was determined whether some settlement of the Indo-China War could be negotiated at Geneva.

The meeting reportedly was suggested by Churchill more than a month ago when a split over Indo-China became evident. The French government will not be represented at the White House meeting. In reporting this, Dulles sought to ease any French disappointment by stressing that no decisions involving other governments would be made.

Mogensen's Death Ruled Accidental By Coroner's Jury

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Ia. (AP)—A coroner's jury ruled Tuesday that John Peter Mogensen, 60 of Omaha, was killed June 6 when he was accidentally struck by a car driven by John Harshbarger, 20, Malvern, Iowa.

The inquest shed no further light on how Mogensen happened to be on the highway at 4 a.m. He was carrying no personal identification or money and his wrist watch was missing. Officers theorized he might have been robbed before the accident.

Tuesday's testimony focused on Mogensen's appearance just before two Council Bluffs youths narrowly missed him in their car and before he was killed by Harshbarger's vehicle.

Joe Adams and Robert Gallup told of the narrow miss of Mogensen on the highway. Adams was driving the pickup truck.

Gallup said he saw Mogensen with his right arm thrown up and his legs bent as if he had jumped from the shoulder of the road. Both men said Mogensen was in the middle of their highway lane.

McKinnon To Head Insurance Group

OMAHA (AP)—L. A. McKinnon of Flint, Mich., Tuesday was elected president of the International Association of Accident and Health Underwriters.

Dr. Roblee, Family Visit Westminster

Dr. Frederick A. Roblee, who will assume the pastorate of Westminster Presbyterian Church the first of September, and his family arrived in Lincoln Tuesday night for a brief visit.

Dr. Roblee will deliver the sermon at the 11 a. m. worship service Sunday. His topic will be, "With Her Banners Flying."

He and Mrs. Roblee will be guests at the monthly meeting of the Westminster women Wednesday noon. Wednesday evening, the church staff will entertain them at dinner.

Dr. and Mrs. Roblee will meet for dinner with the Christian Education Council at the Bruce Hazen home Thursday night. Sunday night, they will meet informally with members of the Church Session.

The family will be honored at an informal reception in the West Hall of the church immediately following the Sunday service.

Phoenix Kidnaping Is Denied

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Daniel J. Marsin, charged with the kidnaping of Evelyn Ann Smith, Tuesday night for the first time since his apprehension denied he was guilty of the crime.

At the County Jail Marsin emphasized to police "I am not guilty of kidnaping." He repeated the word "kidnaping" several times.

Marsin did not elaborate upon his claims of innocence.

The alleged abductor faces a preliminary hearing Wednesday. Police Chief Charles Thomas said he is convinced that Marsin is the right man and committed the crime alone.

He said Marsin "blew his cork" when he got his hands on the $75,000 ransom money and later left it under a tree in the Superstition Mountains. It was found intact there Monday.

Mrs. Smith was abducted in her own car by an armed man last Wednesday afternoon. Her husband, following directions, delivered the ransom to the kidnaper in the Superstition Mountains, 40 miles east of Phoenix, and effected her release the following day.

Prankish Thieves Start Penny Hunt

VALLEY, Neb. (INS) — Employees of the Fullerton Lumber Company of Valley were hunting "hidden treasure" after a visit by burglars during the night.

Sheriff's deputies said the thieves found only 37 cents in pennies in the cash register and apparently in a humorous turn, hid the coins in various spots around the office.

Employees have found 34 of the pennies and are still looking for the other three.

Honest Woman

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — A woman from a nearby city failed to get a nickel into a jammed parking meter. So, city Traffic Engineer W. W. Rankin says, she "mailed the nickel to us and told us the number of the ailing meter."

One Of 21 Red Yanks Is Dead

Chinese Report
Ex-Soldier's Death

TEXON, Tex. (AP)—The Chinese Red Cross said in a telegram Tuesday, Sgt. Rufus E. Douglas, one of 21 U.S. prisoners of war who chose to stay with the Communists after being captured in Korea, is dead.

The 27-year-old West Texas soldier died June 8 in a Chinese hospital of "a rheumatic heart disorder with complications," said a telegram to his uncle, R. C. Howard of Texon.

The telegram was received with some suspicion by Mrs. Howard. She said Douglas did not have heart trouble so far as she knew.

"I think the 'complications' were caused by them — the Reds," she said. "I've told my husband many times that boy wouldn't last a year there. And I don't think the others will either."

Condolences

The telegram said: "The Red Cross of China regrets to inform you and sends deepest condolences and sympathy on the passing away of your nephew, Rufus Elbert Douglas, age 27, at 2000 hours June 8, 1954, in city of Taiyuan, Spanish Province. Cause of death was found to be rheumatic heart disorder with complications. Letter will follow."

The sergeant, whose mother and father died while he was a small child, was reared by an aunt in this West Texas town. He was captured Jan. 1, 1951, while with headquarters, First Battery, 19th Regiment, 24th Infantry Division, in Korea.

News Around The Globe

'Reds Could Win'

WASHINGTON (INS) — The Nation's civil defense chief said that Russia could win a war of survival with the U. S. in a single day if the Soviets launch Massive Atomic attacks on major cities and defense installations without warning.

Federal Civil Defense Administrator Val Peterson made this bold statement in the aftermath of Monday's first continent-wide aid raid alert. He reported that the simulated assault would have killed 8,963,000 persons and injured 4,053,000 others.

Airlift Set Friday

HONOLULU (AP)—The U. S. Air Force airlift of 1,900 wounded French defenders of Dien Bien Phu to France via the United States will begin Friday, an Air Force spokesman announced.

The first wounded will leave Indo-China on that date for Manila, first stop on the long route home, said Maj. William J. Lookadoo, spokesman at Hickam Air Base.

Outline Planned

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (INS)—U. S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge drafted in consultation with Secretary of State Dulles a statement for the U. N. Security Council Wednesday outlining American policy on Indo-China.

The chief spokesman at U. N. for the Eisenhower administration, president of the 11-nation council for June, will strongly endorse Thailand's request for a five-nation team of neutral military observers empowered to survey the effect on Thai's security of Communist Vietnamese attacks on the three-associated states of Indo-China.

Help Is Aim

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles said foreign aid legislation is aimed at helping four European countries which have approved membership in the six-nation European Army Treaty.

At a news conference, he acknowledged, however, that a proposed amendment which the State Department favors would cut off all military aid shipments to Italy and France, nations which have not approved the European arms project.

But, Dulles contended the legislation is not directed against Italy and France but rather directed in favor of West Germany, Belgium, The Netherlands, and Luxembourg, which have approved membership.

Thursday Vote

PARIS (AP)—Pierre Mendes-France said he expects to ask the French National Assembly Thursday to confirm him as premier.

He was reported to have told political supporters he would refuse the job if it took Communist votes to make up the necessary majority. Mendes-France was named by President Rene Coty to succeed Joseph Laniel, whose government was toppled in a confidence vote in the assembly Saturday on Indo-China.

Overhaul Asked

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles ordered an overhaul of the State Department's diplomatic machinery, seeking to improve morale and triple the strength of the foreign service corps.

The first step in the program was President Eisenhower's nomination of Charles E. Saltzman, New York banker and businessman, to be undersecretary of state for administration.

U.S. Steel, Union May Be Agreed

Workers Call Wage
Policy Group Meet

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The CIO United Steelworkers' Tuesday called a meeting of its powerful 170-member wage policy committee for next Tuesday, giving rise to speculation the union is nearing agreement with U.S. Steel Corporation on 1954 contract terms.

Neither the union nor the company would comment on progress of the negotiations—now in the eighth day—but the policymakers seldom are called into session at contract time except to pass on terms reached in negotiations.

Neither observers feel that no formal agreement has been reached but that the union and company have hit on a working formula which they expect to produce results by next Tuesday.

Distribution

A working formula would mean that negotiators have decided on the cost of a package increase, but are still working out distribution of the money—in terms of wages and fringe benefits.

The negotiators have been split into small sub-committees to work on specific points. Neither union President David J. McDonald nor Vice President John A. Stephens, who heads the corporation negotiations, attended Tuesday's sessions.

The union's contract with U.S. Steel expires June 30, at which time the union could call a strike if a new contract had not been settled.

The Fifth Freedom...

THE FREEDOM TO DREAM!

Ours is a land where a boy can dream—and his dream can come true. He can be captain of a ball team, captain of a ship...or a captain of industry.

No iron curtain blocks his path...no thought police silences his imagination...no commissar channels his energies.

In this land, he breathes the precious air of freedom, the only atmosphere in which imagination and vitality thrive. And those are the things that make dreams come true.

The most important guide to a young boy with a dream is his father.

From his father, a son gets to know the meanings of freedom, industry, integrity, fair play, tolerance, reasonableness—the concepts that make America great and wonderful! He learns them not from definitions, but from example.

If you, as a father, are reasonable, if you are tolerant, if you are moderate...in all things...the chances are that your son will be, too.

We of The House of Seagram, we who make fine whiskies, believe that reasonableness and moderation in your use of liquor will help your boy and his dream. We believe that if you are moderate, your son will respect you and the things you stand for. There's a good chance he'll be the man you want him to be.

For the past twenty years, The House of Seagram has been publishing views on moderation. We believe it is our responsibility. In our opinion, the most significant of our Moderation Messages are the ones that appear on Father's Day...for the future of America depends on the idea of human behavior the young men of America inherit from their fathers.

McCarthy-Army Drama Enters Final Act; Senator Praised

... Joe To Take Stand Today

WASHINGTON (AP)—The McCarthy-Army drama reached its final act Tuesday after a fervent tribute to Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) by his chief counsel, Roy M. Cohn.

Cohn turned the witness stand back to McCarthy, who will testify Wednesday as the final witness, and praised the senator as "a great American" whose "only crime has been doing his level best to try and protect the nation from Communist infiltration."

In almost reverent tones, the 27-year-old Cohn by inference defended McCarthy against the "reckless cruelty" charge hurled at him last week by the Army side's chief counsel, Joseph N. Welch.

"I have never known a man," said Cohn, "with less unkindness ... with less lack of charity in his soul."

The end of the long-drawn-out televised hearings approached swiftly with both Cohn and Francis P. Carr, staff director of McCarthy's Senate Investigations Subcommittee, winding up their testimony.

Curtain To Fall

Welch, whose cross-examination took only 25 minutes. Apart from his volunteered tribute to McCarthy, about all he did was to deny in terms of contempt a suggestion from the Army side that he—and not the Wisconsin senator—has been in control of the McCarthy subcommittee.

"Too ridiculous for comment," Cohn said, his lip curling.

With a broad smile, McCarthy added that anyone who has been watching the 34 days of hearings on television will agree that the senators "are very hard to control."

McCarthy and Welch tangled briefly when the 63-year-old Boston lawyer questioned the word of the senator's secretary, Mrs. Mary Driscoll, who had testified previously she typed a Jan. 17 memo from Carr to McCarthy.

"I suggest she did not type it," Welch told Carr, renewing a previous controversy over a series of Carr-Cohn-McCarthy memos whose authenticity the Army side has long questioned.

McCarthy demanded Welch either apologize to Mrs. Driscoll or be sworn as a witness.

Some groans were heard from the audience, and McCarthy told Welch sharply:

"I know you've got your clique here, but it doesn't influence me."

Welch's argument: The memo was headed "Francis P. Carr to Sen. McCarthy." And the lawyer said Mrs. Driscoll never in her life called Carr anything but "Frank" or "Mr. Carr."

Welch went over the series of memos with Carr, almost line-by-line. His obvious purpose, though he didn't say so, was the suggest they were put together after the McCarthy-Army feud reached the boiling point around March 10—and not, as the dates on the memos would indicate, prepared between Oct. 2 and March 11.

'Hostage'

Almost all the memos tend to bear out the McCarthy camp's charge that Army officials—particularly Army counselor John G. Adams—used Pvt. G. David Schine as a "hostage" in an effort to call off the McCarthy investigation of alleged subversives at Ft. Monmouth, N. J.

This is the McCarthy answer to the Army side's original charge that McCarthy and aids—Cohn especially—tried by improper means to get preferential treatment for young Schine, who was a subcommittee consultant until the Army drafted him.

Welch's dogged scrutiny of the 11 memos took a long time, and brought from McCarthy an accusation that Welch was staging a deliberate filibuster.

"Mr. Welch is not dumb," McCarthy said. "He is a very clever young man."

"Sixty-three years of age," put in Welch, who—except in official matters—has not been on speaking terms with the Wisconsin senator since their dramatic exchange last week on the subject of a former Welch aid.

Welch ended his effort to discredit the memos and Carr left the witness stand two minutes later after a final denial—in answer to a McCarthy question—that any member of the subcommittee staff ever sought special treatment for Schine or anyone else.

Man Charged With Killing Boy Intruder

GLASGOW, Ky. (AP)—A shotgun blast in the face killed a boy who chased his puppy in a neighbor's yard Monday night.

Police Chief Thomas Lyle said Earl Castile, 31, an auto mechanic, has been charged with murder of Bobby Coomer, 14. Castile was jailed and no bond or hearing date set.

The dead boy's brother Jolly T. Coomer, 19, was wounded slightly.

Chief Lyle quoted witnesses as saying Castile fired the fatal blast through a window of his home, across the street from the Coomer house.

The brothers had been playing in a driveway adjoining Castile's home.

Lyle said the younger brother reportedly was shot as he went onto the edge of Castile's yard to get the puppy.

The elder brother said he dragged Bobby's body from the yard but Castile forced him away and dragged the body back into the Castile yard.

Lyle said Castile reportedly had threatened previously to "stomp" neighbor children if they didn't stay outside his yard.

An Able Committee

Acting upon the suggestion of Senator Arthur Carmody of Trenton, Governor Robert Crosby Tuesday named a committee of four to review operations of the state correctional institutions. In announcing his action the governor made it plain that there was no implication of criticism of management at any of the institutions which will be studied.

The governor is fortunate, and the state more so, in finding it possible to enlist the services of an able group of men. District Judge Harry D. Landis of Seward, and Dr. James M. Reinhardt, of the University of Nebraska, are particularly widely-known over the state, have the confidence of their fellow Nebraskans, and have their feet planted solidly on the ground. The other two members of the group, Robert Samardick, former police chief of Omaha, and Frank Weygint, insurance company official and former deputy warden of the state penitentiary both have had adequate experience to contribute substantially to the work of the group.

It is to be assumed that the study will concentrate itself upon the state penitentiary where a series of incidents have developed in recent months climaxed by the killing of a guard. Generally it can be said that the correctional institutions have had capable supervision. But a review conducted by men of ability chosen by the governor is timely.

Churchill's Visit

Announcement that British Prime Minister Winston Churchill and British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden will arrive in Washington shortly for a visit with President Eisenhower is the best evidence of the failure of the Geneva conference. Originally Churchill had pinned high hopes upon its success.

Now that it has seemingly blown up there is grim business ahead.

Churchill, the aging warrior, at 79, still undaunted and resolute in his efforts to preserve peace, always is a welcome guest in America. These recent days have added greatly to the humanness of the last of the great leaders who led the free world through its deadliest

Much Too Efficient

An industrial publication injects a strange note in discussing American agriculture.

"We hear much of the great efficiency and productive power of American industry," it says. "We do not hear as much as we should of the efficiency and productive power of American agriculture."

It was just 90 years ago that the immortal Abraham Lincoln completed his first term in office as President. A year earlier he had signed the Homestead Act which created a million family-sized farms in this vast and relatively unsettled American midlands. Then man's dreams centered upon 160 acres of good earth, with improvements to provide shelter for the family and to operate the farm.

How far since that day when America was predominantly rural have we come, thanks to greater efficiency and productive capacity? Recently the Farm Journal said editorially: "Farmers produce so abundantly that 85

Of Men And Things

By J. E. LAWRENCE

The American people, much to their credit, are exceedingly sensitive to injustice. It is this devotion to the spirit of justice, along with other factors, which troubles the American people in the Oppenheimer case.

Currently Oppenheimer is reported to be losing his fight. James Reston, of the New York Times, reported Monday that Maj. Gen. Kenneth D. Nichols, general manager of the Atomic Energy Commission, has drafted a recommendation, supporting the Gray board's finding that while Dr. Oppenheimer is "loyal" he should not be retained as a consultant to the commission. The Nichols recommendation has not been delivered in final form to the members of AEC, but was expected to reach it later in the week when the five-man commission begins the final steps in the proceedings. Reston in his story said it was understood that Nichols is more critical of Oppenheimer than the majority of the Gray board. "Thus, the famous atomic scientist has lost another round—the next to the last—in his long fight to be restored as a reliable servant of his government," Reston wrote.

What disturbs the man on the street is not solely a decision in the case of a single individual—in this instance Dr. Oppenheimer. The man on the street recognizes Dr. Oppenheimer's earlier service in connection with the development of the atom bomb, and he speculates uneasily whether his country is losing more than it gains, or more than the known circumstances suggest. The limited information that he has concerning the reasons for barring Dr. Oppenheimer—in the light of the reaction of scientists—provides little basis for reassurance.

What puzzles many Americans is the wording used by the original security board in its findings. By a two to one majority, a third member dissented to support Dr. Oppenheimer completely, said he was "loyal and discreet" but recommended that he be banned from access to secret information.

Now what puzzles is how a man can be both "loyal and discreet" and at the same time a poor security risk—a security risk who should be denied access to secret information. Quite unconsciously there seems to be springing up in this country a demand for conformity of thought that until recent years has been quite foreign to the American scene. Adlai Stevenson struck out against it vigorously in addressing the graduating class of Vassar college in these words: "This hazard (the corruption of conformity) is a more certain threat to the validity of your education and to your immortal soul than the blandishments of the flesh and the devil... the Oppenheimer case even suggests a weird new science of 'security' which would deny us the security of science." That is a most penetrating statement. We may say to the scientist that he shall not have access to secret data but that in no way provides security to us in the scientific knowledge he so richly possesses.

One thing which admittedly contributed strength and vigor to America has been the encouragement given to the human mind to seek new ideas. This has been particularly true in the field of invention and science. Young as we are, vigorous as we are, in our fearlessness we have outstripped much older nations.

"Loyal And Discreet" Adds To Puzzle

of perils. And Churchill, seemingly as rugged as an ox, a strange squat Shakespearean character, reminiscent of the old world and symbolic of the new, did not escape unscathed. Coincident with his planned visit it became known here that the British prime minister had suffered two strokes, one of which left him partially paralyzed.

If anything that decoration which he accepted Monday from young Queen Elizabeth, a decoration earlier rejected, seemed to provide such a fitting touch to the career of a man capable of mistakes in a long busy colorful life, but so outstandingly useful in the battle for survival of the free mind.

per cent of the population now can choose other kinds of jobs. If farmers were not so efficient, a lot more people would have to go to work farming. This is an efficiency that since before the war has increased farm output about 40 per cent, and does it with 17 per cent less labor."

What that contributes to current discussion in Congress over rigid or flexible price supports is questionable. It is recognized that mechanization of the farm has increased production and at the same time reduced the need for labor. With improved equipment one man can do the work of three, and do it with less effort.

But the type of character that is a part of the American tradition is extremely vital to the nation. The economic balance between industrial and agricultural classes is equally important. It would be an evil day, we fear, in America if the nation's population were divided 85 per cent urban and 15 per cent rural. Our crowded cities would become more crowded, more removed from those currents which have contributed so much to American thought, culture and decision. The crowded metropolitan centers are impressive but yet have to demonstrate that they can contribute to America's keen conscience, its sense of justice, its true vitality in the same degree that an earlier rural America enriched the nation's spiritual fountains.

Must Be Patient

The vote of no confidence in France's Laniel government has started that nation on another round of cabinet reorganization seeking a combination of leadership and policies that thus far has not been found.

It is a sad time for any nation when its divisions and uncertainties become so pronounced that it cannot set a true and abiding course. And France has had more than its share in this way ever since it was redeemed by its allies from the German occupation.

If there is a proneness on the part of United States to become impatient with France it would be understandable. In many respects France is key to the cause of the Democratic West in Europe. So much depends upon her stalwartness and reliability. Yet today it is France that has failed to come through on more than one critical demand.

However that may be, it is time for even more patience. Abandonment of faith in France will only compound her troubles and anything that further weakens her greatly weakens the West. Perhaps, and we all hope, this newest cabinet reorganization may finally be the one that will reverse the direction of recent years.

Finds It Comfortable

Marshall Tito, decked out in a spotless white uniform is visiting Greece, and according to reports is having a fine time. There is a probability that out of it will come a military alliance with Greece and Turkey, further solidifying Yugoslavia's marriage to the West. It is quite interesting that a Communist country such as is Yugoslavia can retain its convictions and still live in amity and confidence with capitalistic democracies. It more or less explodes the Russian thesis that there is an irreconcilable conflict which must be pursued to the elimination of democracy.

Fat TV Licenses Are Being Investigated

WASHINGTON—Two strapping GOP senators, who sit alongside each other on the Senate floor, almost got into a fistfight the other day. The contenders were Herman "Breezy Boy" Welker of Payette, Idaho, age 47, and Ed "Easygoing" Thye of Northfield, Minnesota, age 58.

The flareup ended with Welker storming into Senate Secretary Mark Trice's office and demanding that his seat be moved.

It isn't quite clear who started the beef. Welker came bustling into the Senate and noisily took his seat. Apparently Thye was trying to concentrate in the next seat and suggested that Welker pipe down.

"I am getting — I'm tired of these pseudo-news dealers," commented Welker loudly, obviously referring to Thye.

"You step outside, and I'll ram that down your throat," the farm-bred Minnesotaan invited.

At this point, other senators hushed them up, warning that the galleries might overhear them.

Welker then went roaring into Trice's office to get his seat changed away from Thye. However, Trice managed to soothe Welker's ruffled fur and talk him out of it.

SCANDAL BREWS

One development that contributed to the overwhelming defeat of the last Republican administration was the power scandals. A senate investigation of the Federal Power Commission and big utility lobbying showed how powerful influences had been working to gobble up choice water and dam sites throughout the nation.

Public reaction to this not only contributed to Herbert Hoover's defeat but led to the government-owned dams and REA power system of Roosevelt's days.

Today a similar situation seems to be brewing inside another agency which also controls some of the most prized natural resources of the nation—the Federal Communications Commission.

Just as there are only a limited number of rivers and damsites which can be harnessed for electric power, so also there are only a limited number of wave lengths in the ether that can be harnessed for television. The people who get there first and the people who get the most powerful wave lengths not only make a lot of money but help to control the thought, the political ideas, and the education of the United States.

SECRET GRAY

Only a few weeks after the Eisenhower administration took office, the seven members of the FCC quietly and magnanimously handed out an eight per cent telephone rate increase to the telephone company without even holding hearings. The public had no notice of the action. Consumers had no opportunity to testify. The FCC simply doled out the gravy, almost in secret, then announced it.

The telephone company, of course, is almost a complete monopoly. Western Union, is now being permitted to close various offices all over the nation, with little supervision from the FCC.

Fortunately, some Republican senators have seen the danger, and a Senate committee headed by Sen. Potter of Michigan is at work investigating—in contrast to the hush-hush policies of the Hoover administration.

Republicans are also fortunate in that certain Democrats have promoted immensely.

BRAZIL REBUFS ARGENTINA

The recent revolt in Paraguay, in which Gen. Alfredo Stroessner forced President Federico Chaves to resign, was really a slap in the face for Argentine dictator Juan Peron.

Even before Peron officially took office, eight years ago, the Argentines had muscled in on Paraguay's export trade, banking business, etc. But after Peron became president he stepped up and systematized this process, soon made the neighboring republic an economic colony of Argentina.

Torn and weakened by a bitter jungle war with Bolivia, plus a series of devastating civil conflicts, Paraguay was in no condition to resist Argentine encroachment. However, its dominant (and only legal) political party, the Colorado, has long been split down the middle over sympathy with, or antagonism toward, the Argentines.

General Stroessner, a brilliant young officer whose father was a well born Prussian, became prominent in the faction which disliked Peron. In that part of South America, people who are anti-Argentine are apt to be pro-Brazilian. This was the case with Stroessner.

For some time past, Brazil's diplomats in Asuncion, the Paraguayan capital, have been skillfully playing on the discontent created by President Chaves' excessive chumminess with Peron and the fact that he twice invited Peron to visit Paraguay.

Meanwhile the Brazilians kept harping on the fact that inland Paraguay, with no seaport, would be swallowed up whole if she continued to depend exclusively on Argentine waterways for her international commerce. Brazil offered to help build railroads and highways that would connect with the rapidly expanding Brazilian network, thus providing the Paraguayans with a second outlet and a better bargaining position.

Actually, the recent coup d'etat was planned for May 22, less than a week before Peron's scheduled arrival. But President Chaves got wind of it and brought matters to a head by ordering the arrest of an army officer involved.

General Stroessner is not only a Brazilian sympathizer, but is also convinced that if and when a showdown finally comes between the two "big boys" of South America (as everyone in those parts is sure it must) Argentina will come off second best.

For the moment, a provisional civilian replacement, Tomas Romero Pereira, has been put in the presidency. Unless Peron & Co. openly intervene in Paraguay, however, next month's elections will be merely a formality and Gen. Alfredo Stroessner will take over as the new "strongman" chief of state.

MARQUIS CHILDS

Ridgway Opposed To Radford's Position

(Editor's note: Following is the second of two articles by Marquis Childs on behind-the-scenes debate in the Eisenhower administration over intervention in Indo-China.)

WASHINGTON—At the recent National Security Council meeting, Gen. Matthew Ridgway, as a soldier, did not discuss at any length the political implications of involvement in Indo-China, but the Army chief of staff did draw a striking analogy. He pointed to America's problem in pacifying the Philippines at the end of the Spanish-American war.

Subjected to long years of oppressive colonial rule under Spain, among the Filipinos there was a deep hostility toward any white governing power imposed by bayonets. The United States eventually sent 70,000 troops to the Pacific islands yet pacification was long-drawn-out and would have been much more prolonged had it not been for the policy of William Howard Taft, the first civil governor, in helping the Filipinos people toward independence and statehood.

Gun emplacements in the Indo-China jungle, Ridgway told the NSC, would have to be surrounded by armed guards on duty 24 hours to prevent infiltration. The use of local forces in supply and transportation, as was done extensively in Korea, would be all but impossible because of the hostility of up to 80 per cent of the population.

Basic to Ridgway's thesis is the premise that America's main enemy is Soviet Russia. A corollary to this thesis is that the area essential to keep out of Communist hands is Western Europe with its great reservoir of industry and trained manpower. In the Security Council discussion that followed there was the suggestion that Russia might even be happy to see the United States drawn into an Asian war that would, in the Army view, inevitably become, and quickly, a land war. The American strength would be dissipated while Russian strength was conserved for the final test.

Ridgway will not discuss his views. Repeated efforts have been made to get him to talk about his differences with Adm. Arthur W. Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. But he has refused to see all questioners.

Since the controversy over Indo-

China developed in its acute form, something like a freeze has been put on information out of JCS and to some extent out of Pentagon itself. Adm. Robert B. Carney had made a commitment to a national magazine to write an article, based on an extensive intelligence digest showing the impressive buildup of the Soviet navy. This was ruled out by a JCS order forbidding the chiefs, deputy chiefs, service secretaries and assistant secretaries from writing articles.

But those on the civilian side of government who agree with the Ridgway thesis feel strongly that the public should know his views, particularly since the interventionist viewpoint has been so widely advertised. Radford said in a speech six weeks ago that no further area should be allowed to go behind the Iron Curtain no matter what the cost. Vice-President Nixon told the American Society of Newspaper Editors that if it became necessary, he would favor using American ground forces in Indo-China. This was in response to a question asking him how far he would be willing to go if American intervention should be necessary.

Recently there have been signs of an effort by administration spokesmen to beat a strategic retreat from this advanced position, or, at any rate, they seem to be saying that circumstances in the immediate future will have to determine the course of American action.

Nixon, ordinarily so articulate, has been conspicuously silent. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, in his western speech-making tour, reproached Britain and France for failing to meet American pre-conditions to "united action" and said the United States would never fight alone for colonialism. He did, however, reserve the right to take action alone in the event of an attack plainly jeopardizing America's security.

Perhaps the shift, if there has been a shift, will never be officially and publicly proclaimed. These of the Ridgway persuasion feel that the greatest test of intervention or non-intervention is still to come. It will come with the mounting threat to Hanoi and the dramatization of the loss of an area that, as Radford has pointed out, is rich in resources the Communist world can employ against the free world.

Garden Glances With The Moon

"Would Jove appoint some flower to reign in matchless beauty on the plain, The Rose, mankind will all adore. The Rose, the Queen of Flowers should be. The pride of plants, the grace of flowers. The blush of mien, the eyes of flowers. Its beauty charms the kind above. Its fragrance is the breath of love. Its foliage wanders in the air. Lustrous, like the flowing hair. It shines in blooming splendor gay. While zephyrs on its bosom play."

Third lunar quarter began early this morning and now June's moon in on the wane. In the movable, dry, and semi-fruitful sign, Capricorn, which it will enter this afternoon at 4:03. Friday, soon after midnight, it will enter the fixed, airy, and very barren sign, Aries. Then Monday, at 6:30 a.m., it will enter the watery and fruitful sign, Pisces, and next Wednesday, June 23, at 10:42 a.m., it will enter the movable, fiery and exceedingly barren sign, Aries.

I've been on a four day jaunt and a very pleasant one it was. Crossed the Missouri River into Iowa at Blair last week and went up to Mapleton. There to see and visit with Mrs. C. G. Whiting, a nationally known iris hybridizer, and to walk in her pleasant and stimulating Maple Valley Gardens. Hundreds of new iris in dress parade dazzling to the eye. What a sight! The true, clear blues, reds, and pinks pleased me most. Blue Rhythm, Blue Mood, Blue Zenith and Windsor. Blue Rhythm, you recall, won the coveted Dykes Medal in 1950. Garden Magic, Garden Glory, and Garnet Glory are irresistible deep wine reds. Opera Pink, Pink Coral, and Sweetbriar are three intriguing pink ones.

"And new creations do the old succeed. As late and unknown beauties rise from seed."

Sunday morning, we were busy at the Iowa Rose Society's twenty-seventh annual Rose Show held at Waterloo this year with the Cedar Valley Men's Garden Club, Waterloo, and the Northeastern District Iowa Rose Society as hosts. Glen E. Ralston, Roland B. Scull, co-chairmen, staged a beautiful and exceedingly memorable rose show.

On our way home we stopped to see the American Rose Society's test garden at Ames, under the able direction of Dr.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: I wish to take this opportunity to thank the Lincoln papers for the fine honor they have bestowed upon me. It makes me feel that all my years of coaching in Nebraska high schools have not been spent in vain. I know that without good boys such an honor would never have been awarded me and I also owe them a vote of thanks. I also wish to thank you for all the recognition you have given the boys who have played under me and know that they appreciated it also. All the things you are doing are certainly conducive to promoting cleaner and better sports in Nebraska high school competition.

People Or Money

Lincoln, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: Because of the state Board of Control's refusal to meet salary demands in the employment of psychiatrists at the state mental hospital at Ingleside, the Hastings Tribune comments, "It appears to be better to save dollars than it is to give people treatment."

That same quotation applies as well to the advice given by the board to Gov. Crosby to transfer medical aid from state assistance to county boards. The governor and the legislature did just that, for which there will be a reckoning at the ballot box.

In putting the medical costs upon the counties the county boards were required to assess the cost in an added levy against property. Overall it amounted to $1 million. In Lancaster County it is around $350,000. Now comes the Board of Control to tell the governor that the switch had saved the taxpayers $500,000. What hogwash! If it costs a million to save a half million then the taxpayers are out a half million.

The only so-called savings that accrue are to state funds which no longer have to pay for the medical care of the aged. But those funds have never run short in the last 19 years. Rather, they have been raided for $4,225,000 by the legislative diversion. Why then this raid on the county property owner's pocketbook?

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: Summer is here and I see the young ladies going about again dressed in shorts.

That kind of wear is for little children. When young ladies come out with so little on one wonders about their sense of refinement. Really they could keep just as cool in sheer clothing and be attractive.

It seems to me that single girls are the worst offenders.

GOP Push Tax Cuts With Budget in Red

WASHINGTON—Wyoming Democrats have told the national committee that they will draft former Sen. Joseph O'Mahoney to run this fall in place of Sen. Lester Hunt, who has announced his retirement for health reasons.

The Wyoming leader's further depose that O'Mahoney, now practicing law here, will heed the call and will be elected. They are, in fact, asserting that the Democratic trend in their state is so strong they can win with anybody.

Rising Republican confidence is evidenced by the decision of Rep. William Henry Harrison, Wyoming only member of the House, to seek Hunt's seat. He had consistently refused to run against Hunt, a popular former governor.

Harrison, a descendant of two former presidents of the United States, has been a good vote-getter. Wyoming Republicans here say he is the strongest candidate they could have but they confess wishing he also were a former governor.

Hunt's retirement was the second blow dealt Democratic hopes of gaining control of the Senate this fall. The first was when Senator Ed Johnson of Colorado said his wife insisted they go back home. So he is leaving the Senate and will run for governor. Colorado Democrats tell Washington that the Senate picture is still unclear but they, too, are confident that their nominee will benefit from a Democratic trend.

No party likes to lose an incumbent, and both Johnson and Hunt have proved their vote appeal. The national committee, however, is inclined to accept the Wyoming and Colorado assurances about the Democratic trend because it checks with news elsewhere.

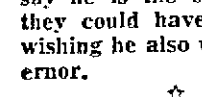

Specifically, they believe that Senators Paul Douglas, Hubert Humphrey and James Murray, about whom they were worried a year ago, are now well on top in their respective states of Illinois, Minnesota and Montana. They expect all their other incumbents to come through nicely, including Sen. Guy Gillette of Ohio.

Kendrick Democratic report that they will knock out Senator John Sherman Cooper with former Vice President Alben Barkley. Republicans will agree that Barkley is rarely told anything disagreeable to his face but his fellow Kentuckians, but they expect Cooper to make a strong race and probably win.

Massachusetts Democrats sound a note of optimism, too. They say that in State Treasurer Foster Furcolo, a former congressman, they have for the first time got a candidate who can give Sen. Leverett Saltonstall a real race. In 1948, Democrats indifferently gave their nomination to an unknown, though it later developed that Harry Truman could probably have pulled an active candidate through against Saltonstall.

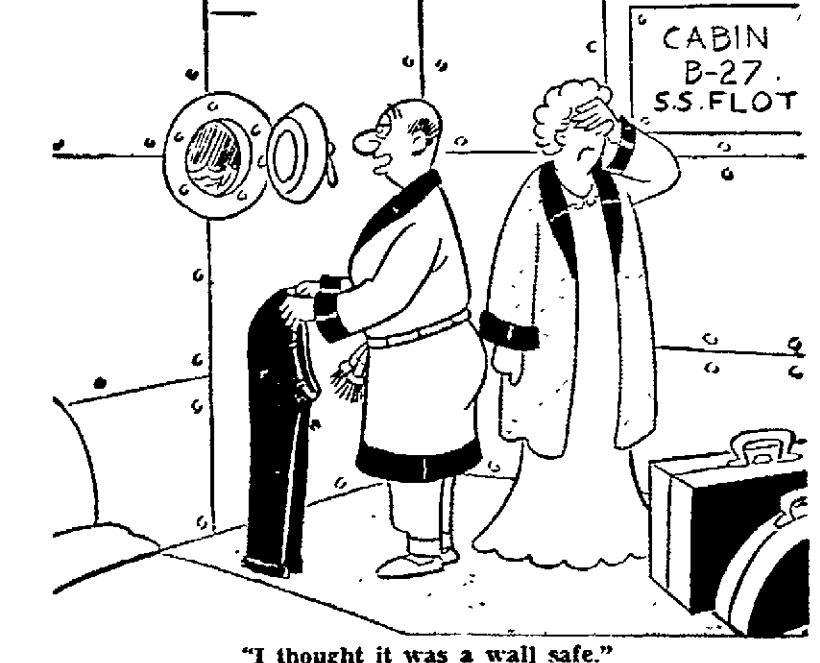

Democratic hopes in New Jersey zoomed as news of the Hoffman embezzlement scandal broke. Republicans, who lost the governorship on a corruption issue last year, had drafted the popular liberal, Clifford Case, for the Senate race, forcing the incumbent Sen. Robert Hendrickson to retire. Democrats chose an able congressman, Charles Howell, and expected to make a strong bid for the Hendrickson seat. Now they feel that Case is handicapped to the point where Howell will win.

Red Cross Claim Kicks Up Cross-Country Storm

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A statement by the chairman of the American National Red Cross that some tornado-stricken cities hadn't reimbursed the Red Cross for help kicked up a cross country storm Tuesday.

Chairman E. Roland Harriman, addressing the American National Red Cross convention singled out Flint, Mich. The mayor of Flint said Tuesday this was "an unjustified attack on the people and the city."

Harriman said, "this kind of situation has also happened elsewhere," and another Red Cross official said two other cities hit by tornadoes last year, Waco, Tex., and Worcester, Mass., were involved.

The Central Massachusetts Disaster Relief Committee, Inc., replied: "It would seem that the Red Cross has made an ungenerous and inaccurate statement."

To Be Considered

In Waco, trustees of its disaster fund said a Red Cross request for a share will be considered "if it develops in the future that relatives of tornado victims have no further need of help."

The crux of the controversy seemed to be: Should a stricken community that collects a supplemental fund reimburse the Red Cross for meeting basic needs? Or should it supplement Red Cross help and try to rehabilitate victims as nearly as possible to the previous status?

Harriman told the convention: "Developments in recent disaster operations make it necessary for the Red Cross to return to its previous practice of conducting special campaigns when disasters strike."

"The American people have supported the Red Cross disaster programs because they have been in sympathy with . . . our sound policy of meeting . . . basic needs alone . . ."

First Things First

"We have never considered that the public wishes us to act as an insurance company and replace disaster losses on the basis of loss . . ."

"When a community wishes to spend disaster funds raised by its own citizens in its own way, it has every right to do so. But first things come first."

He said that when a tornado struck Flint last June, the Red Cross "spent nearly $600,000 contributed by all the country. Meanwhile a committee in Flint solicited funds and received over $900,000. Not one cent of this was turned over to Red Cross to meet needs."

"On the contrary," Harriman added, "after Red Cross finished its job, all that money was distributed to people over and above what they had received from Red Cross — irrespective of whether they could have taken care of themselves from then on in whole or in part."

Willing To Aid

Flint Mayor Donald Riegler said he understood that "a good deal" of the money contributed after the tornado was given to the Red Cross. He expressed hope the matter could be "cleared up immediately."

Officials of the Flint Red Feather Fund said minutes of a meeting with Red Cross representatives two days after the June 18, 1953, tornado showed the Red Cross was willing to aid regardless of money raised locally.

Ellis H. Warren, chairman of the Flint fund, said he thought about $150,000 of the disaster fund was given to the Red Cross.

"I don't think that they should be paid back any more of the money," he added. "It should be used to rehabilitate everyone as close as possible to their former status."

Legislative Council Committee Hears State School Redistricting Problems

The Legislative Council committee on school district reorganization held the last of its public hearings here Tuesday. An executive meeting will be held later to decide on the report.

Sen. Glenn Cramer, chairman, expressed the opinion that a number of "bugs" in the present laws will have to be corrected at the next session and that two laws on the subject should be coordinated to place all responsibility in the hands of the state committee.

Mrs. Arabella P. Hanna of Superior, chairman of the state re-districting committee, and R. C. Johnson of Mead, committee member, told the lawmakers of some of the problems they have encountered. They said that the unpaid committee is being swamped with work.

They explained that more programs have been submitted by counties in the last four months than in the past four years. This month, they said, 37 county plans were reviewed.

Johnson said that the excuse that redistricting has to wait for better roads is false and pointed to the Mead district which he said was redistricted 33 years ago before there was a mile of gravel road.

He told reports of landlords threatening to remove tenants from farms if they signed petitions for redistricting.

The state committee members said that the policy of small districts contracting for education of their children in other districts was one of the problems delaying redistricting.

Sen. Herbert Duis explained that many town districts were soliciting contract students because they want to enlarge their school enrollment and merchants in the towns want to keep it the trading center of the parents.

Sen. Cramer said that it appears additional staff will have to be given the state superintendent in order to care for the growing demand from counties for help in working out redistricting programs.

Also appearing before the committee as witnesses were State Supt. F. B. Decker, Prof. Leslie Chisholm of the University of Nebraska Teachers College, Dr. R. L. Fiedstrom of Lincoln and Harold Duffee, member of the Dodge county redistricting committee.

Europeans Not Defeated, They're Just Frustrated, Woods Says After Trip

While many of the peoples of Europe are still suffering in poverty, they are not defeated, just frustrated, Thomas C. Woods Sr., president of the Lincoln Telephone and Telegraph Co. said after returning from a two and one-half month tour of Europe.

"The people are still primarily engaged in getting a decent place to live and something nourishing to eat," Woods said.

During his stay in Europe he visited Portugal, England, Spain, France, Italy and Germany. He emphasized that his visit "does not make me an expert" and that his opinions were those of a casual observer.

Europeans, he said, are afraid of another war.

"We felt that we were fighting the Korean War pretty much alone and should be able to understand how the French feel about Indo-China, where they have been fighting all alone for many years," he said.

During his short stay in France he had dinner with Rene Pleven, ex-premier of France, with whom he has been friends for a number of years.

While overseas he studied the foreign operation of businesses in which he has an interest.

Pointing out the general attitude concerning the Communists enmity toward Americans, he said, was this incident. The Reds put up a sign which said "Go Home Americans." Later an enterprising travel agent put underneath this sign "Be Sure And Go By TWA," and another airline's man put up a sign saying "And Return To Paris by Air France."

Despite disagreements on international issues, he said, "I found that the people were very friendly." He said that he thought the ordinary citizens, meeting face to face, "do a much better job of getting along than the diplomats do."

House Votes No On Farm Goods Ban To Red-Trade Nations

Dies Plan Is Killed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House refused Tuesday to ban the sale of surplus U.S. farm commodities to "friendly nations" which ship their own farm surpluses to Russia or her satellites.

The action was taken by standing vote 74-37 on a proposed amendment to a bill that would authorize the President to sell or give away, under limitations, surplus farm commodities.

The amendment, offered by Rep. Dies (D-Tex.), was turned down after opponents argued it might defeat the purposes of the bill—to dispose of surpluses—because many "friendly nations" now sell their own surpluses to Iron Curtain nations.

Rep. Cooley of North Carolina, senior Democrat on the House Agriculture Committee told the House he didn't know of a "single country we could do business with" if the amendment were approved.

More Than Weapons Dies argued that Russia needs food and fiber more than it needs weapons.

"Some day we've got to make up our minds," Dies said, after urging an embargo on all shipments to Russia.

The Texan succeeded in winning approval of an amendment designed to prohibit re-sale or transshipment of U.S. surpluses by nations receiving them.

By voice vote, the House adopted an amendment by Rep. Kelly (D-N.Y.) excluding from the definitions of "friendly nations" Russia or any other country dominated by Communists.

Then it deferred until Wednesday further consideration of the legislation.

The bill is designed to facilitate the sale of commodities now bulging from Commodity Credit Corporation warehouses and costing an estimated $700,000 daily just for storage charges.

The Senate passed a similar bill designed to dispose of 500 million dollars worth of surpluses in one year.

Susan Breaks Down; Divorce Airing Stalled

HOLLYWOOD (INS)—Illness of Susan Hayward brought a 24 hour recess in her contested suit for divorce from Jess Barker Tuesday after the flame-haired screen star testified that she only pretended to love the actor during the last years of their marriage.

Resumption of the hearing was set for Tuesday amid reports that a financial settlement was almost reached between the two. Barker is demanding that more than $500,000 be divided as community property and is contesting both the divorce and her child custody action.

All during the second day of the hearing the actress showed the strain of testifying and of listening to details of her broken marriage. She told attorneys that she was too ill to continue.

False Answer

She broke down in sobs after telling the court that while she gave movie fan magazine writers the idea that hers was a made-in-heaven marriage, actually "in my heart I was not happy."

The actress said she was well aware that her marriage to the actor was described as "one of Hollywood's happiest."

But, she said "I gave the writers false answers to their questions."

A few minutes later Miss Hayward wept as her broken marriage to Barker was reviewed.

Wings Of The Wind

LONG GROVE, Ia (AP)—A tornado apparently whisked a dog several miles through the air, then put him down unhurt.

Basil Hilton, Long Grove farmer, said his shepherd dog, "Bob," went to his bed in the garage. The twister picked up the garage and carried it away. After the storm there was no sign of Bob. But two hours later he was at the door, frightened and whimpering, Hilton said.

Red Promise May Affect Lincoln Man

A Lincoln family Tuesday anxiously awaited developments on the word from Geneva saying Red China had promised to consider "early release" of American prisoners with records of good behavior.

Lt. Lyle W. Cameron of Lincoln was reported captured by the reds in Korea on Oct. 26, 1952, and Radio Peiping later reported his capture.

"We feel certain that Lyle is alive somewhere," his mother, Mrs. Rolland Cameron, said here.

She said the family has been on correspondence with the Air Force and also with the family of Lt. Roland W. Parks of Omaha, also held by the Chinese Red.

Parks, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Parks, also was shot down during the Korean conflict.

THE GROWING TREND TO MODERN LIVING ON WHEELS

Here's performance you must try to believe. Why wait?

MEMO TO MODERNS WHO LIKE ACTION: Slide behind the wheel of the new Lincoln. Then drive the fine car that shows you what the others may be able to do—tomorrow.

You'll notice a subtle combination of mighty power and gentle power. You surge ahead when you must. You ease along in congested traffic—effortlessly. You discover automotive performance you've never dreamed of. You are driving the car with the engine which many experts agree is the finest on the road. It's the Lincoln overhead valve V-8, upon which has been lavished all the engineering imagination, experience, and skill of the world's foremost builders of V-8 engines.

Come in. Ask us for the keys to a new Lincoln or Lincoln Capri. P.S.—FOR THE ENGINEERING-MINDED: Engine: Lincoln's low-friction, 205-hp engine has new 4-barrel carburetor, rear barrels vacuum-controlled. No mechanical linkages. Gives you economy in all ranges; instant power when you need it—with no time lag. Suspension: ball-joint suspension, found only in Lincoln among fine cars, means better handling, lessens sway even on tight corners. Brakes: increased in size to a full 220 sq. in. for safer, easier stops. Frame: a rugged x-type custom-designed for each body style.

For the fourth straight year, Lincoln wins first place in its field for economy in the famous Mobilgas Economy Run.

Group Named To Review State Penal Operations

A committee to review operations of the three state penal institutions was named Tuesday by Gov. Robert Crosby. He said they would study the success of various programs and policies and make recommendations on how service to the state can be improved.

The naming of the committee, he said, was decided upon following his personal inspection of the institutions last year, questions developing in his mind at Pardon Board meetings and discussions he had at the recent nine-state correctional conference held here.

"I do not at this time have any grounds whatever for criticism of the administration of any of the institutions," the governor said. "I have heard some criticism occasionally but nothing was substantiated."

"The criticism was not more, but probably less than is heard in other states," the governor said he has learned from conversations with other governors. "The nature of these institutions subject them to criticism."

To make the review, the governor said he had obtained Dr. James M. Reinhardt, professor of sociology and criminology at the University of Nebraska, who is now writing some books on the subject.

He also named Frank Weygint, Lincoln insurance company official and former deputy warden at the Penitentiary, and District Judge Harry D. Landis of Seward. The fourth member is Robert P. Samardick, former Omaha police chief and now president of an armored car company and investigative service.

Board Approves

To be reviewed are the operation at the penitentiary and Men's Reformatory in Lincoln and the Women's Reformatory at York. The governor said he has discussed his plan with the Board of Control and that it meets its approval.

Crosby said he had found the Board of Control and institution superintendents "sincerely anxious to have the institutions operated as well as is possible."

The superintendents must operate within the administrative framework set up by the Legislature and the Board of Control, he pointed out in saying that he will ask a review of policy in connection with operations.

This, he continued, will include among other things, pay scales for employees, educational programs and efforts at rehabilitation.

The committee can perform a great state service, the governor said, and praised the public spirit of the members in doing the work without pay and even meeting their own expenses.

All of the members of the committee, Crosby said, have long been students of criminology and interested in improvement of penal institutions.

Scribner Band Veteran Begins 36th Season On Baritone Horn

SCRIBNER, Neb. (P)—"Once it gets into your blood, you just never want to give it up."

That's how Charles M. Steil, a charter member of the Scribner Municipal Band, describes his devotion to the horn and marching band music in general.

Steil, who never had a real music lesson in his life, has played with the band through its 35 seasons. The 36th season opened this month.

He played with his brothers in a country band in the beginning and says at one time or another he played the entire line of horns. Then in 1918, he determined to specialize in the baritone.

Steil recalls that high points through the years include the 56-block march during the American Legion National Convention in Omaha in 1929 when the Scribner unit took second place among Class B bands, the unveiling of the Missouri River Bridge at Yankton, S.D., and numerous radio presentations.

He credits his ability to being able to play to an hour of practice daily as a farm youth and to having played under good band leaders. Edwin J. Schwein of Dodge served as director for 22 years. He now directs the American Legion Band at Los Angeles. A. J. Clement of Dodge is the present director.

Glendo Project Okayed By Senate Group

States In Agreement

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Interior Committee Tuesday approved a resolution to provide for construction of the Glendo Unit of the Missouri River Basin project in Wyoming.

The unit was authorized in 1944, but the appropriation bills for several years have barred use of any money for its completion of a definite plan and agreement on water rights between the states of Nebraska, Wyoming and Colorado.

The states are now reported in agreement.

Trenton Grandstand 'De-Roofed' By Twister

Naked steel girders are all that remain of the Trenton Pow-Wow grandstand roof, which was lifted off by a twister which struck near Trenton. An estimated 1,000 persons were seated in the grandstand minutes before the fury of the storm destroyed the roof. The crowd, assembled to watch stock car races fled from the scene when the black cloud was sighted. The twister also damaged three cars parked near the grandstand. The structure was opened for use last summer. (Photo Special to The Star)

Stamp Collecting Also Gives Doctor Glimpses Into Past

FAIRBURY, Neb. (AP)—Dr. C. H. Pitzer's stamp collecting is a hobby that has also given him an occasional intimate glimpse into history.

At one time the Fairbury dentist could boast stamps from every country but in more recent and unsettled times he has not been able to keep pace with the changing governments.

With the stamps in Dr. Pitzer's collection are also many covers, some of them dating back before the time when stamps were used. And in the process of gathering covers, Dr. Pitzer has also acquired many old letters and historical documents.

Goodhue Family
The majority of letters belonged to the pioneer Goodhue family which settled in Thayer County. They were written to the Rev. Nathan G. Goodhue, starting in about 1850, when he lived in Mass. hussets, and followed him as he traveled west to preach the gospel.

A particularly revealing one, dated Jan. 29, 1857, says:

"I don't believe it is your duty to break up again at the end of the year and go off outside of civilization and deprive yourself, your wife and child of the comforts they ought to enjoy. You have done enough of that kind of work now. . . . We are having a very severe winter here East Boston. The snow is six or eight feet deep in our streets and our harbor has been closed with ice for a week. . . . Our merchants have had a track cut through the ice to the open sea, a distance of eight miles, to let the British steamer out. . . ."

Another letter, written on Sept. 18 of the same year says:

Banner Co. Oil Activities Hold Western Spotlight

DENVER (AP)—Exploratory activity has focused attention of western oil operators on Banner County in western Nebraska, with extension of the Harrisburg Field and new drilling in the Hinshaw Field.

At least seven operators now are drilling that area. In addition, Petroleum Information reported, two wells in Nebraska's Kimball County are pumping oil. Shell Oil's No. 1 Schmid has made 21 barrels per day and Magnolia Petroleum's No. 1 Baur 125 barrels per day.

Seaton To Speak At Omaha Meet Of Reserve Group

OMAHA (AP)—Fred Seaton of Hastings, assistant Secretary of Defense, will be keynote speaker Wednesday morning at the opening session of the Reserve Officers Assn.

The convention, which runs through Saturday, will bring together high officials of the Army, Navy, Coast Guard and Air Force. Each is scheduled for a separate meeting Wednesday afternoon.

Other speakers Wednesday will include Hugh M. Milton 2d, assistant Secretary of Army, Lt. Gen. John E. Dahlquist, chief of Army Field Forces, Maj. Gen. Charles L. Dasher, deputy commander of the Fifth Army, Maj. Gen. B. L. Milburn, special assistant to the Army Chief of Staff for Reserve, James T. Pyle, special assistant to the Secretary of the Navy for Air, Rear Adm. Alfred C. Richmond, commander of the Coast Guard, and Lt. Gen. Leon W. Johnson, commander of the Continental Air Command.

"You can expect the most raiding in the best melon patch"

You can bet your bottom dollar on it. Come next year, or the year after that, you'll be seeing on other cars some of the styling features you see in Buick today.

We expect it. It has happened before. And there is good reason for it—popular appeal.

Take, for example, the car model shown here. We call it a Riviera. Most people call it a "hardtop."

When Buick introduced this body type in 1949, it was a completely new thing. And it was an instant hit.

Today, Buick "hardtops" outsell all other models in the line. It's the styling America has taken to its heart.

So today you find that every major car maker has his own version of this Buick original. (And we can't blame them a bit. They know a good thing when they see it.)

Maybe you've noticed other such borrowings from Buick.

The diagrammatic sketch shown here lists some of the Buick advances that are now reflected in styling of other cars—or will be soon.

For you can be sure that the great panoramic windshield first shown by Buick this year will be copied. It's too good to pass up.

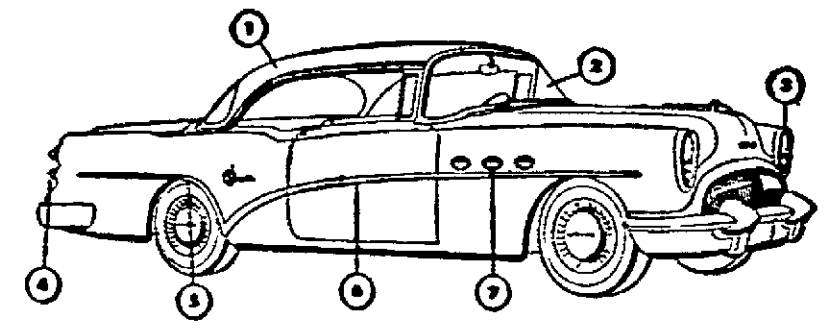

And you can be sure that the full rear-wheel cutout now on every 1954 Buick Riviera and Convertible will show up elsewhere in the future. It's a sports-car touch that hits a really popular note.

We're sure of such things.

We're sure because the tomorrow-styled Buick of today seems to be just what people want. Because Buick sales are soaring. Because Buick now outsells every other car in America except two of the so-called "low-price three."

So to you we say—why wait another day to see and drive a new Buick? It's the beauty of the year. It's the buy of the times. And it's a wonderful way to head up the parade.

Drop in this week for a demonstration, won't you?

KEY TO SOME STYLING "FIRSTS" BY BUICK

Agronomists Observe NU Research Work

Group Tours Wahoo Test Plot

The University of Nebraska Agronomy Farm was the main center of attraction for the nearly 350 members of the American Society of Agronomy attending their three day session here. The meeting, scheduled to end Wednesday, is providing information on recent agronomic research developments for soils and crops from 21 states and five foreign countries.

At the Agronomy Farm, the visitors had an opportunity to observe the research program at the University of Nebraska College of Agriculture. These projects involve crop rotations, alfalfa and grass studies, small grain nurseries, studies of fertilizer on brome grass, soil and water conservation research, subsoiling as compared to plowing methods, nitrogen maintenance studies, grazing experiments comparing brome grass with and without fertilizer, and general crops.

Barbecued Chicken
Their tour of the Agronomy Farm ended with a barbecued chicken luncheon there, courtesy of the Nebraska Crop Improvement Association and the Nebraska Fertilizer Industry Group. The barbecuing of the chicken was courtesy of the poultry department of the University of Nebraska.

One of the highlights of the afternoon program was a visit to one of the out-state testing plots near Wahoo.

It was explained to the visitors that the Nebraska Legislature in 1943 created the program for regional agronomic research in areas not fully represented by the Experiment Station at Lincoln or at one of the Substations. Since this date, farmer co-operators have made it possible to conduct several hundred studies of crop varieties and soil fertility practices. These Outstate Testing and small grain improvement projects are the responsibility of the Agricultural Experiment Station with their researchers working closely with the county extension agents and other representatives from USDA agencies. The members of the Corn Belt Branch of the American Society held their annual banquet and business meeting Tuesday night at the Student Union Ballroom. Program chairman for the day were Dr. Harold F. Rhoades and Dr. John H. Lonnquist, agronomists at the University of Nebraska.

Other new officers include Mrs. Vera Ficke of Emerald, vice president; Mrs. Melba Scott of Emerald, secretary; Mrs. Lana Ficke of Pleasant Dale, treasurer; Mrs. Ida Ficke of Pleasant Dale, chaplain; and Mrs. Norma Pennington, sergeant-at-arms.

Mrs. LaVerne Dankers, past president, installed the officers.

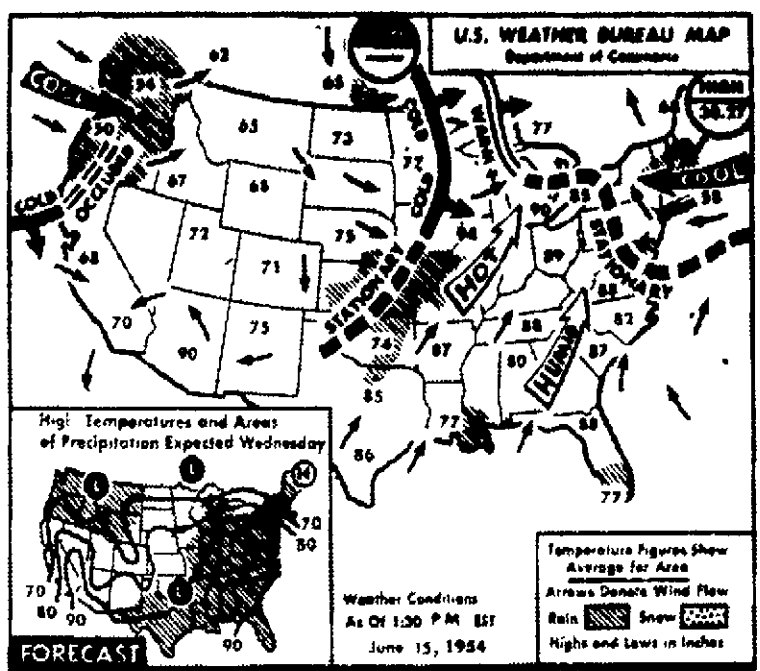

New Legion officers include Lawrence (Top) Frost of Woodlawn, commander; Larry Ficke of Pleasant Dale, vice commander; Dean Pillard of Malcolm, adjutant; John R. Scott of Emerald, finance officer; Ralph Bird of Pleasant Dale, child welfare officer; Glen Van Andell of Pleasant Dale, service officer; and Bill Kapke of Pleasant Dale, sergeant-at-arms.

Scott is the retiring commander.

New Sokol Camp Building Dedicated

VALLEY, Neb.—Special ceremonies marked the dedication of the new $75,000 recreation hall and dormitory at the Sokol Camp, south of Valley.

Dedication speakers were Rep. Roman Hruska of Omaha, who helped purchase the site in 1935, and Otakar Charvat, editor of a Bohemian fraternal paper. The new building will accommodate 50 children.

Fair Skies And Warmer Temps

Scattered showers and thunderstorms are forecast for Wednesday from the Mississippi valley and Texas eastward to the Atlantic seaboard. Scattered showers are also expected in the northwest Pacific states. Generally fair weather will prevail elsewhere. It will become warmer in the northern and central Plains; continue warm in the midwest and Ohio valley, and hot in the south Atlantic states. It will be slightly cooler in the upper Great Lakes and Missouri Valley. (AP Wirephoto Map)

Law Enforcement In Pawnee Gets Short-Wave Link

Lincoln Star Special
PAWNEE CITY, Neb.—Pawnee County officials have installed a two-way, short wave radio in the sheriff's office as a direct means of law enforcement with other southeastern Nebraska counties and as a link in the Civil Defense program.

Short wave stations are located in most of the county seat towns along the Kansas border in this area. Pawnee City's station, with a sending and receiving radius of 100 miles, can reach all the area stations.

Stations out of Pawnee City's range can be reached through a relay system. The station will be used primarily by the sheriff's office, but will be available for Civil Defense training operations or in actual emergencies.

Services At Waco For Mrs. Kruse, 64

WACO, Neb.—Funeral services for Mrs. Catherine H. Kruse, 64, lifetime resident of Waco, will be held at 2 p.m. Wednesday at Peace Lutheran Church here. She died in a York hospital.

Surviving are her husband, Herman; three daughters, Mrs. Paul Staehr and Mrs. Edgar Stuhr, both of Waco, and Mrs. Ralph Stuhr of Bradshaw; a son, Harley of Waco; 14 grand children, a sister and three brothers.

Sweet Assignment

OMAHA UP—Two Omaha detective sergeants, Walter Whitling and Poe Vinci, were given a sweet assignment Tuesday. They were told to find the sweet-toothed burglar who stole strawberry shortcake from the apartment of Clarence Wood.

Ex-Sen. Hern, Chadron, Dies

CHADRON, Neb. (AP) — William Hern, 70, widely known Nebraska state legislator, died in a Chadron hospital Tuesday afternoon. He had been ill recently of a heart condition and entered a hospital Saturday.

Mr. Hern

As recently as Monday, Hern's condition was described by Dr. A. J. Koursch as improving.

Hern served four terms in the Nebraska Legislature beginning in 1945, after having served as a Dawes County commissioner from 1927 to 1938 inclusive.

Hereford Breeder
Hern originally was a Chicago and North Western Railroad conductor but he retired from the railroad after 16 years to raise purebred Herefords on a ranch near Chadron which he maintained at the time of his death. He is survived by his widow, Aldora.

During Hern's last term in the Legislature he was chairman of the agriculture committee and third ranking member of the state Legislature. He was defeated by Monroe Bixler of Harrison in the 1952 election.

He was born in Boone, Ia., June 23, 1883, and had lived in the Chadron vicinity since 1938.

Hern was co-sponsor of the state cigarette tax act, passed in 1949, and helped lead a successful fight to give the four state teachers colleges the right to grant liberal arts degrees. One of these colleges is at Chadron.

Death Shocks Crosby
Gov. Robert Crosby Tuesday said he was "deeply shocked and grieved" to learn of William Hern's death.

The governor described the former state senator as "an old friend."

"I feel that the whole state of Nebraska and particularly western Nebraska has lost a leader and a spokesman," Crosby said.

Frolik, Round On Study Trip To Turkey

A study visit to Ankara, Turkey, which was begun Tuesday by two members of the staff of the University of Nebraska may lead to establishment of a new college in that country.

Flying to Ankara are Dr. E. F. Frolik, chairman of the university department of agronomy, and George Round of the public relations department of the university. A university spokesman said Round is making the trip as an employee of the U. S. Department of Agriculture; he is also extension service editor for Nebraska.

The two are making the trip for the Foreign Operations Administration as well as for the university.

Karnopp Asks Re-election To Sheriff's Post

Lancaster County Sheriff Merle C. Karnopp has filed on the Republican ticket for a second term of office.

Karnopp, 44, served as a deputy sheriff for eight years before being elected sheriff in 1950, defeating incumbent Myles Holloway for the Republican nomination.

Holloway is again seeking the sheriff's post, but on the Democratic ticket.

In filing, Karnopp said "Law enforcement is a very important part of government. I think my record as sheriff demonstrates my willingness and ability to serve the people of Lancaster County."

A life-long county resident, Karnopp is a graduate of the National FBI Academy, a past president of the Lancaster County Young Republicans and vice president of the Nebraska Sheriffs and Peace Officers Association. He is a member of the Elks, Shrine, and Grace Methodist Church. He was Exalted Ruler of the Lincoln Elks lodge last year.

Karnopp is married to Gertrude Ward Karnopp, daughter of the late E. Cecil Ward, a former Lancaster County sheriff. They have a son, Dennis.

8 Polio Cases Are Counted

The State Health Department reported Tuesday eight cases of polio were counted in Nebraska last week. The state total for the year now is 20, compared to 30 at this date a year ago.

Custer County reported four cases last week. Others reporting one each were Buffalo, Hamilton, Greeley and Scotts Bluff. The two polio cases brought to Lincoln for treatment last week from outside Lancaster County are the first and only cases brought here so far. Lincoln hospitals reported. Hospitalized here are Ronald Knapp, 3½, son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Knapp of Elm Creek; and Darleen James, 4, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman James of Lushion.

License Hearings

The Lancaster County Board has set next Tuesday as public hearing date on applications for the renewal of licenses for amusement places and road houses in the county expiring June 30. Operators are notified to appear at 10 a.m., June 22, at the Courthouse.

Dr. Frolik and Round will study the feasibility of entering into a contractual arrangement with the University of Turkey at Ankara in which certain staff members from the University of Nebraska would be available for instruction at the Turkish college.

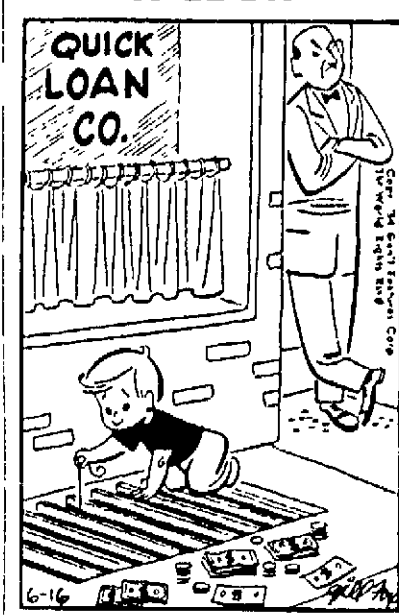

Ken Keller of the public relations department of the university said it is possible some arrangement may be made whereby Turkish personnel would come to Nebraska for training on an exchange basis. Keller emphasized that there is no "give-away" involved in the proposed contract with Turkey. Under the arrangement, he said, the university would be reimbursed for any staff members sent to Turkey.

He said it was his understanding that this contract would be the first of its kind entered into by the university here. Other state colleges and universities have entered into similar arrangements with universities in other lands.

Frolik and Round are expected to return about mid-July. They were named by Dean W. V. Lambert of the College of Agriculture. In Ankara they will confer with officials of the Foreign Operations Administration, the Turkish government and the University of Ankara.

U.S. Aid Sought

TOKYO (AP)—The Japanese government plans to ask U. S. aid in construction of a 5,500 mile highway network costing an estimated 750 million dollars. Kyodo News Service said. Japan hopes the United States will pay a large, but unspecified share of the cost, Kyodo said.

Cotner Property Owners Again Ask Parkway Removal At City Expense

The City Council has again been called upon to remove the center parkways from Cotner Blvd. between Dudley and Garland.

Attorney Lloyd Marti told the Council that the request this time represented the unanimous feeling of all property owners concerned who could be contacted. Marti presented a petition bearing 22 signatures asking that the parkways be removed at city expense. Marti noted that parkways were removed from streets in the Havlock district recently at city expense.

The two existing 17 foot roadways in the area, Marti said, are extremely unsafe for traffic movement. The city's responsibility in the matter was emphasized by Marti noting that Cotner is a major connecting link between Lincoln and Omaha.

POSTCARD

The other day I went calling on the Russians. I hope this sounds casual. Because it was, I wish it was like Gregory Peck in the movies. With Balkan brunettes and carrier pigeons carrying the big story.

Instead it was pure accident. I went over to the Bellevue-Palace Hotel in Berne to ask Mr. Fred Krebs for the recipe for Truite farcie Mont-d'Or. I ran right into the Russian delegation to the Hospes, the International Cooking Exposition.

We will welcome American tourists when our hotels are rebuilt. All the delegates nodded solemnly.

What hotels did the Russian delegates like best? Mr. Trukhine said ah, there were so many good hotels in Switzerland. One of the delegates said which hotels did I think best.

I said I thought the Baur-au-lac in Zurich and Mr. Jack Fischbeck's Royal Hawaiian in Honolulu were the two best hotels in the world. Fred Krebs translated into Russian. He said patriotically that I had not yet tried the Bellevue-Palace.

The Russians all raised their glasses of gin-and-vermouth. Mr. Trukhine said they drank to international tourism. They all rose and shook hands again. Very correct and cold. Nobody smiled as they went out.

"Do you think they would talk to me?" I asked Mr. Krebs. With all the correspondents second guessing in Geneva, I thought it would be mighty clever if I came up with what's new with borsch.

Mr. Krebs said he doubted it. "They don't say much to me and I speak Russian." However, he came back in a few minutes and said to come over to the table.

The Russians all rose. There were six, including one woman. They shook hands with a hard one-two pump. They sat down and looked at me gloomily.

"Would the Russian delegates say whether they think it is possible for the United States and Russia to open two-way tourist trade?"

The commercial attache at the Russian Embassy translated Gopodin Trukhine.

The Russians all looked gloomier than ever. They held a short conference. They eyed the ribbon I wore in my lapel. It was a ribbon of the Confrerie des Chevaliers du Tastevin. The Burgundy wine tasting society. I was wearing it to put on a little dog for the international chefs. The Russians eyed it as though I had been decorated for germ warfare.

"You should make application at the Russian consulate," said Mr. Trukhine coldly.

"What I mean is that Russia has reopened the tourist office in London. Does this mean that Russia will now welcome foreign tourists?"

Mr. Trukhine held another conference.

Russia has suffered very much by the war, he said. Until they rebuilt their hotels there was no place to sleep. That was why they attended the Swiss Hospes. To improve hotels in Russia.

"And after the hotels are rebuilt?"

"The hotel people are not the government," said Mr. Trukhine. "That is a matter of government."

I said it sounded a good deal like my country. Mr. Trukhine translated this. Everybody laughed and the atmosphere warmed considerably. Mr. Trukhine held another conference.

"I think you can definitely say

Omaha Senior At Princeton Honored

PRINCETON, N. J. (AP)—Homer A. Smith of Omaha, Neb., was presented with the W. S. Detwiler prize as the Princeton senior who has done the most for his class.

Smith, class president for four years, was captain of last fall's varsity football team.

Paul Sarbanes of Salisbury, Md., was awarded the class of 1901 medal as the senior who has done the most for Princeton during his undergraduate career. He was chairman of the undergraduate council and a Rhodes scholar-elect.

The students voted the prizes to the two men — the highest honors seniors can receive.

Smith also received the highest athletic honor, the William Winston Roper trophy.

cause the Swiss are neutral, peaceful people.

The Russians agreed that peace was wonderful. They were for peace too, they said.

Mr. Krebs diplomatically did not go into his other background. How he learned Russian for instance.

"In 1941 I was assistant manager of the Waldorf Astoria in New York. They drafted me into the American Army. When they found I spoke seven languages, they put me in Counter Intelligence. One of the things I studied in spare time was Russian.

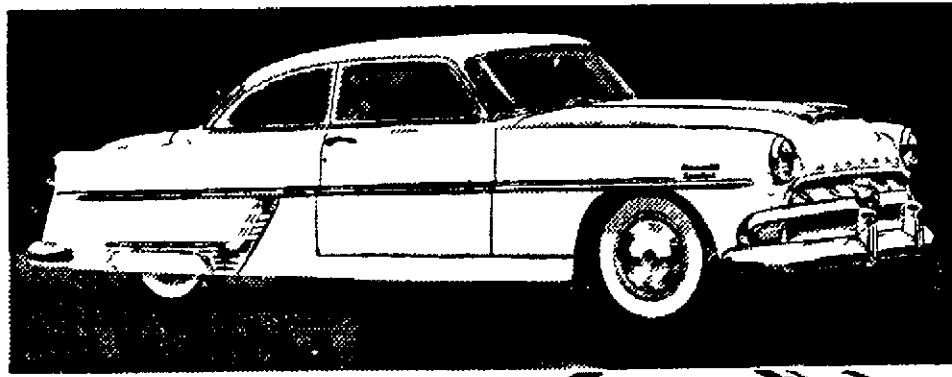

"I suppose the Russians know all my background anyway," said Mr. Krebs thoughtfully.

U of N Exhibition Of Paintings Set

A special summer exhibition of paintings by nine American painters of this area will be opened Friday at the University of Nebraska Art Galleries. The showing will continue through Aug. 29.

The nine painters are: J. Franklin Sampson of Edmore, N. D.; Robert Huck of Aberdeen, S. D.; Karl Mattern of Des Moines, Ia.; Tom Cavanaugh of Kansas City, Mo.; R. J. Hunt of Topeka, Kan.; Robert D. Ray of Denver, Colo.; Ilya Bolotowsky of Laramie, Wyo.; Fores Whiteside of Oberlin, O.; and Warrington Colescott of Madison, Wis.

Both Cavanaugh and Ray were purchase prize winners at the Joslyn Art Museum's exhibition, "The Midwest," this year. Mattern and Whiteside have exhibited in Nebraska Art Association showings. The other five are exhibiting for the first time in the galleries in Morrill Hall, 14th and U Streets.

State Asks Bids On 2 Cozad Paving Projects

The State Highway Department will open bids July 7 on two short paving jobs at Cozad, estimated to cost a total of $55,000.

The projects involve a total distance of 1.6 miles on U.S. 30 in Cozad.

The federal government is putting up half of the cost and the city and state share the remainder.

Trio From Arizona

The three Powells—Mrs. Joseph (the former Marion Edgren Farrens) her daughter, Tycha, and son, Jan—have that "having wonderful-time-is-h-y-o-u-were-here look—And judging from the calendar since their arrival Sunday, they are having a wonderful time.

However, all good things come to an end and Mrs. Powell and her son and daughter, who stopped off in Lincoln en route home from Europe, will be leaving tomorrow morning on the last lap of their journey to Phoenix, Ariz.—and home.

ONE MORNING may be just as interesting as another—but never are two the same. Remember Tuesday morning? We had guests galore. This morning we have no guests to mention, except those who are leaving, but we do have some homecomers—and an interesting sidelight on something we read in Life.

SOMEHOW the June brides seem to interfere a bit with our reading habits, and we were a little late in getting around to week-before-last's Life—but we made it, and turned quickly to p. 189 and the article on "Life Goes To an Honor Society." It was about the Redmen at the University of Michigan, naming their new Braves with appropriate warpaint and feathers—Anyway, the good looking young man helping a fellow Redman off with his warpaint was Dick Pinkerton—and Dick Pinkerton is the nephew of Mrs. Glenn Baldwin of Lincoln—and cousin of Miss Mary Belle Baldwin and Mrs. Tom Lawrie—Mr. Pinkerton, by the way, will be visiting in Lincoln one of these days, and has other things to recommend him besides being a member of Michigan and such—He is a Phi Gam Scabbard and Blade—Sphinx, and executive secretary of Michigan's Student Union.

SOMEONE told us that when Mrs. Joseph Powell, her daughter, Tycha and son, Jan, leave tomorrow for their home in Phoenix, they will be accompanied by Miss Patti Prouty, and young Harry Prouty, Jr., who also are going home.

When Mr. and Mrs. Harry Prouty left Lincoln a few months ago to reside in Phoenix, Miss Prouty remained in Lincoln to finish the year at Lincoln high school, and is just now joining her family. Harry, Jr., came from Phoenix a week or two ago to visit his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Livingston in Fairbury.

WE stated a paragraph or two back that we had no guests to mention—we didn't know then that Mrs. C. Burke Morris is arriving tomorrow from Clarksburg, W. Va., for a visit with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Burkett Van Kirk and, naturally, to meet her brand new granddaughter, Miss Christine Morris Van Kirk.

THE WEEK-END spotlight will be turned on numerous interesting things, and one of them is the wedding of Miss Shirley Sides and Thomas Bowman, of Denver, which takes place on Saturday evening.

On Friday evening Mr. and Mrs. Phil L. Sides will compliment their daughter and Mr. Bowman when they entertain at a pre-nuptial dinner, immediately following the wedding rehearsal, at the University Club.

Out of town guests who are coming for the wedding and who will arrive in time for the dinner on Friday evening include Mrs. R. M. Anderson, Mobile, Ala., aunt of the bride-elect; Mr. Bowman's parents,

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn A. Bowman, and his grandmother, Mrs. W. M. Schoeff, Wabash, Ind.; his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. William Bowman, Detroit, Mich.; Mr. and Mrs. Fritz Loonsten, New Augusta, Ind.; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hughes, Evansville, Ind.; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas L. Hagg, Jasper, Ind.; Robert Pierce, James B. Osbourn, Albert J. Logar, and Miss Juliana Rediger, all of Denver, and Miss Sally Finkbine, Storm Lake, Ia.

SPEAKING of brides-elect reminds us of news of Miss Nancy Klein whose marriage to Lt. Louis B. Hopkins of Salisbury, Md., takes place on July 1.

Miss Klein will be honored on Thursday when Mrs. H. A. Dillman entertains a small group of guests at luncheon at her home. The after-luncheon hours will be spent informally and Miss Klein will be presented with a hostess gift.

On Saturday Mrs. Richard Moulton will compliment the bride-elect when she is a hostess at her home. A guest of some has been invited for luncheon and a kitchen shower.

OUR homecomers are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ammon and their son, Bob, who are expected to return this evening from Houston, Tex., where they have been spending several days on a combination of business and pleasure. It was business for Mr. Ammon—pleasure for Mrs. Ammon and their son.

Of much more than casual interest this morning is the announcement made by Dr. and Mrs. Glenn T. Warren of the engagement of their daughter, Sally, to Robert F. Messmer, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Messmer of Omaha.

No wedding date is named. Miss Warren, who attended Monticello College, Alton, Ill., is a senior at the University of Nebraska where she is a member of Pi Beta Phi sorority. Mr. Messmer is a former student in the University of Nebraska School of Architecture, and now is at Ft. Belvoir, Va., where he is stationed with the armed forces.

To Entertain At Luncheon

Mrs. Ray Wallasky will be a luncheon hostess on Thursday when she entertains eight guests at her home in country to Mrs. Robert Harrington of Lexington.

Mrs. Harrington and her three daughters, Patricia, Peggy Rose and Holly, are visiting in Lincoln as the houseguests of Mrs. Harrington's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Kittrell.

En Route To Europe

Some guests stop in Lincoln on their way home from abroad—but others, such as Mrs. George Burlingame of Beverly Hills, Calif., stop off en route to Europe.

Mr. and Mrs. Burlingame arrived in Lincoln at early week for a brief visit with Mrs. Burlingame's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Myron Loomis. On Thursday Mr. and Mrs.

Axis Club Makes Tour

Members of the Axis Business and Professional Women's Club met for dinner Tuesday evening at the YWCA, followed by a short business meeting at which Miss Helen Stein, president, presided. Later in the evening, the group toured the new State Historical Society building.

Madam Chairman

MORNING
Coordinated Day Camp, junior high school girls, 10 o'clock to 1 o'clock, Camp Minis Kuya.
AFTERNOON
Havelock YWCA "mystery tour," meet at the Havelock Center at 2 o'clock, refreshments at center following tour.

THE STAR WELCOMES:

M. Sgt. and Mrs. Thomas E. Williams, who are newcomers to Lincoln where they are residing at 2504 So. 19th. Sgt. Williams returned recently from a tour of duty in Japan, and he and his wife hope to stay in Lincoln for the time remaining in the active Air Force reserve.

Mrs. Williams grew up in Preston, Minn., but during the time her husband was overseas, she obtained her degree in sociology from the University of Denver. Although Sgt. Williams is a native of Houston, Tex., and his wife hope to settle eventually in Denver.

Recent returnees to this country from the Air Force Base in Fairbanks, Alaska, are M. Sgt. and Mrs. Raymond Lundie, their daughters, Anita, three and a half, and nine month old Lauren.

The Lundes are living at 2731 So. 19th, and they, like many of our newcomers, expressed their delight at Lincoln's friendly and sincere welcome to strangers. Before her marriage, Mrs. Lundie was with the telephone company in her home town, Newburgh, N.Y. Sgt. Lundie is a native of Brooklyn, N.Y.

Two natives of Winner, S. D., are newcomers to Lincoln and 1915 E. Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Leach Jr. moved to Lincoln to spend a relatively calm summer before Mr. Leach begins his pre-law course at the University of Nebraska and his wife begins teaching English at College View High School.

Mr. Leach recently served a four year sojourn with the Air Force and scarcely got his education underway at the Univer-

Double Ring Ceremony

Garden roses and greenery appointed the chancel of the Evangelical Church at DuBois for the marriage of Miss Mildred Shinn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Shinn, to Albert E. Penec, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Penec, all of DuBois, on Sunday afternoon, June 6. The Rev. Duane Lenz of DuBois read the lines of the double ring service, and the wedding music was played by the Rev. Paul Dick of Omaha, who also accompanied David Rinne of Seneca, vocalist.

Frocked in pink net over satin was the matron of honor Mrs. Byford Thomas, and Miss Betty Henninger, in blue taffeta, was the bridesmaid. They wore headbands of brook-toned net and carried bouquets of pink carnations. Miss Nancy Lenz was the flower girl, and lighting the chancel candles were Miss Alice Shinn and Miss Joyce Bertek.

Sam Gillette of York served as best man, and seating the guests was Bill Penec, brother of the bridegroom.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of traditional white satin. The long-sleeved bodice, accented by an off-shoulder yoke of illusion, was snugly-buttoned at the back, and the wide skirt, which ended in a train, was trimmed with panels of Chantilly lace. Her illusion veil was finger-tip length, and she carried a white Bible ornamented with roses.

Following the reception, held in the church parlors, the couple left for a short trip, later to reside at York where the bridegroom is a theology student at York College. Mrs. Penec has been employed at the Nebraska State Capitol.

The Hope for Hopeless Hair

A RESTOR TREATMENT is just what the name implies, it restores hair to a normal condition, for the many ills of hair, excessive dryness, split ends or damage from improper treatment. It is the quick restoration with the help of keratin, a protein found in normal hair which is often lost when the hair is abused or neglected for a month or two.

RESTOR is a solution of elements for hair designed to penetrate the hair shaft and remain there to revive, strengthen and add weight to limp, dull, scanty, bleached, drab and dyed hair. It will definitely change the appearance with just a single treatment to a more natural look and will make it feel like new grown hair, resulting in a defined and lustrous appearance, more satisfactory permanent waves and will prevent fading in tinted hair.

The whole process takes no longer than a few more minutes and helps to make a bygone of unruly hair.

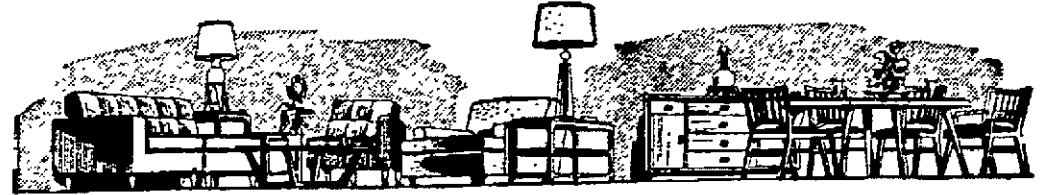

Maison Lorenzo offers consultation without charge with Mr. Roberts, style director, regarding your individual hair problems.

Marriage Announced

Announcement is made this morning of the marriage of Mrs. David Chapin Beardsley of Washington D. C., to Edward M. Kuhl of Ashland, which took place on Tuesday, June 15, at Holy Family Church.

The ceremony and the nuptial mass were solemnized by the Rt. Rev. Monsignor Leslie V. Barnes in the presence of only the immediate members of the families.

Mrs. Robert J. Easley, daughter of Mr. Kuhl, and Mr. Easley were the attendants, and the altar was served by Mr. Kuhl's two grandsons.

For the ceremony the bride wore a blue chiffon wool suit, with small hat and accessories in Neapolitan blue.

Mrs. Kuhl, a native of Strawberry Point, Ia., was graduated from Northwestern University, Chicago, and for several years has been on the staff of the United States Commissioner of Customs, specializing in foreign trade affairs. She also has served as a treasury representative on the Inter-American Coffee Board since its inception in 1946.

Mr. Kuhl is the senior member of the Kuhl-Reece Co., in Ashland.

County Commissioners Refuse To Close 33rd St. 'Extension'

Lincoln County Commissioners denied a petition for the closing of the 33rd St. "extension" from Pioneers Boulevard south for 90 rods, following a public hearing Tuesday.

Only one of the petitioners appeared at the hearing while objections were voiced by two holders of adjacent property.

County Engineer L. W. Weaver, reporting on the petition, recommended that if the road were closed, it should include the entire mile of section road instead of the petitioned 90 rods to the creek.

Weaver said the road has little travel and that the bridge over the creek was in poor repair.

"If the road can't be closed, it should be opened (made more passable)," said the proponent.

While objectors admitted the road was largely used for a farm machinery access road at present, they urged the right-of-way be maintained because of possibility of future development of area.

Mrs. Glenn Weber and Mrs. Gladys Andrew of the class of 1929 were also honored.

York Church Pledges Support To College
Lincoln Star Special
YORK, Neb.—The Evangelical United Brethren Church of York has placed in its annual budget a pledge of $1,000 toward the support of York College if the denomination continues to operate the college at York.

The Commissioners agreed that the road should not be closed because of its proximity to Lincoln and rapid expansion of property development in the area.

In other action, the board awarded a $23,640 contract to Abel Construction Co., Lincoln, for 75 miles of maintenance gravel on county roads. The other bidder was S. P. Lindley of Lincoln, $24,110.

Ben Says Record Score Needed To Win

Pros Scoff At Hogan's 'Open' Forecast

By WILL GRIMSLEY
SPRINGFIELD, N. J. (AP)—Golf's hardened tournament tourists and wide-eyed favorite sons checked in at Baltusrol Tuesday and almost to the man scoffed at Ben Hogan's prediction that a record score may be needed to win the 54th National Open championship.

The general guess was that a tally of 283 to 285 for 72 holes would be good to capture top prize money of $5,000 in this premier test, beginning Thursday. Par for the 7,027-yard course is 70.

If Hogan can play broad ball, he is in 276, the record score he set

SIoux CITY, Ia. (AP)—Omaha's Cardinals unleashed home run power Tuesday night, cracking five in all and three in the eighth inning to defeat Sioux City 9-4.

It was a 2-1 ball game going into the eighth, Omaha having u s e d Jimmy King's two-run homer in the first inning to get a lead over the Soos, who had tallied on Dick Getter's solo home run in the second.

But the Cardinals exploded for six runs in the eighth to sew up the game. Pitcher Bob Clear led off the inning with a home run. Don McLennan and Barney Elser singled to send starter Ben Wilbur to the showers.

Omaha's lineup was as follows: McLennan, 3; Elser, 2; Getter, 2; Wilbur, 1; King, 1; Clear, 1; Elser, 1; Wilbur, 1; King, 1; Clear, 1.

Table with 3 columns: Player, Team, and Statistics. Rows include McLennan, Elser, Getter, Wilbur, King, Clear, Elser, Wilbur, King, Clear.

Lincolntes Not Among Leaders At Champaign

CHAMPAIGN, Ill.—Lee Anderson, Matt Taber and Bill Hemmer, three golfers from Lincoln participating in the Western Junior Golf Championships here, were not among the top 15 qualifiers. The Associated Press reported Tuesday.

Ronald Scharzel, 17-year-old Pittsburgh golfer, shot a two-under-par 70 at the University of Illinois course to lead the qualifying. A total of 36 qualified for today's match-play rounds, which will reduce the field to eight. Quarter and semifinals will be played Thursday with the 36-hole finals slated for Friday.

Jean Poling Seeks 2nd Beatrice Title

Lincoln Star Special
BEATRICE — Jean Poling, a 21-year-old Beatrice girl, will meet Mrs. Herb Kempker of Beatrice today over 18 holes at the Country Club in an attempt to a second straight Beatrice Outstate Women's Golf Tournament title.

Miss Poling, recently graduated from Duquesne College in Omaha, defeated Mrs. Fred Price of Beatrice Tuesday in the first round, 5-3, over nine holes.

Mrs. Kempker beat Mrs. Pearl Bower of Norfolk, 1-up.

In the First Flight, Barbara Warren of Beatrice swept past Mrs. Nellie Ebel of Fremont, 5-4, and Mrs. William Eyth of Beatrice stopped Mrs. Richard Reische of Beatrice, 3-2.

They will meet in the finals today.

The second flight matches two more Beatrice women in the finals. Mrs. Charles Scholle ousted Mrs. Elgie Rhineshart on the tenth hole, and Mrs. Carl Allen won over Nell Shaw.

Illini Pace Big Ten Win

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP)—The University of Illinois shouldered major responsibility by producing four winners Tuesday night and led the Big Ten to a surprising victory over the Pacific Coast in the annual track meet between the two conferences.

The final score was 74 to 58. Big Ten athletes, breaking a string of three straight victories by the powerful coast aggregation, fought the westerners to a stand-off throughout the early events and wrapped it up in the next-to-last race, the 220-yard low hurdles.

A nine-point sweep gave the Big Ten a total of 69 points and it added some insurance tales in the final event, the mile relay, Ben Youtsey of Purdue and Ralph Fessenden of Michigan beat the quarter-milers the coast could offer in 3:10.6.

The event winners:
100-yard dash—Wille Williams, Illinois, 09.6
200-yard dash—Bob Gary, Washington State, 21.7
440-yard dash—Ralph Fessenden, Michigan, 47.9

New Wheat Disease Threatens Eastern Nebraska

By JOHN SWANSON
Star Farm Editor

A dangerous threat to Nebraska wheat has made its first heavy invasion of the eastern part of the state.

And in addition to its damage to more farmers' pocketbooks, the wheat disease is leaving some important questions unanswered with its jaunty eastward. This disease is western streak mosaic, which has been found to be extensive in eastern Nebraska this year for the first time.

Scientists at the College of Agriculture are delving into the little-known life cycle of the carrier of the disease, and are trying to pin down the means of its survival. The new emphasis in this battle followed an inspection of wheat around Lincoln, Beatrice, Fairbury, Red Cloud, Alma, Beaver City, Arapahoe, McCook and other points west to Kimball.

Home Unknown

The real problem they found is this:

The type of mosaic found in eastern counties previously has been soil-borne mosaic. But this year, the type found has been western streak which was believed to thrive in the west where there is early volunteer wheat for the carrier mites to feed upon.

This volunteer, which resulted from frequent hailstorms, was believed essential to the spread of the disease. But in the east, where there is no general early volunteer wheat, the question of Any Disease In This Wheat?

Lloyd Anderson of Lincoln, a graduate student and entomologist at the College of Agriculture, examines a field of wheat east of Lincoln for any signs of the dangerous western streak mosaic disease. (Star Staff Photo)

what plants provide a home for the carrier remains unanswered.

Dr. Robert Staples, assistant professor of entomology at the College of Agriculture, said there is a possibility that native grasses in the eastern wheat areas fill the same role in harboring the disease carriers as does early volunteer wheat in the west. As things stand now, Staples said, "it is hard to account for the western streak epidemic in eastern Nebraska."

When wheat which carries the mosaic carrying mites matures, Staples explained, the mites must escape to other live plants for growth. When crops have been hauled, the volunteer growth starts early, giving the mites a good chance to develop. These infested growths of volunteer infect fall stands of seeded wheat when winds blow the carriers onto the healthy stands.

Could Be Serious

The scientists have to find out now just how late volunteer growth must be in order to miss being a disease carrier, and also how well native grasses serve as hosts to the virus.

If the western streak mosaic becomes epidemic in eastern Nebraska it could be serious to this region as it has elsewhere. This year, for instance, mosaic damage in Kimball and Cheyenne Counties has devastated crops over a wide area struck last year by an early July hailstorm.

And from Kansas State College word has come that the disease in that state appears to be more widespread than in 1949 when Kansas wheat growers in the western third of the state suffered losses estimated at $30,000,000.

The Nebraska Grain Improvement Association has announced that mosaic can be spotted from yellow streaks in infected plants. These streaks are parallel with the leaf blade. The disease causes a stunting and prostrates growth in the plant.

Another leader in the fight against the disease in Nebraska is Dr. William Allington, plant pathologist at the college.

Experiment Station To Mark 50th Year

Celebration Set At North Platte

Lincoln Star Special
NORTH PLATTE, Neb. — The 50th anniversary of the North Platte Experiment station will be celebrated in conjunction with the annual Crops Day program Thursday, June 24.

Discussing the history of the station at the 10:30 a.m. program will be W. W. Burr, dean emeritus of the University of Nebraska College of Agriculture; L. L. Zook, former superintendent of the station, and R. A. (Pop) Rhodes, farm foreman.

Gov. Robert Crosby will discuss the meaning of agriculture to the state and Dr. B. T. Shaw, administrator of the agricultural research service, USDA, Washington, D. C., will speak on the next 50 years in agricultural research.

2,000 Expected
The Rev. John B. Rupley Jr., president of the North Platte Chamber of Commerce, will welcome the group.

Approximately 2,000 persons are expected for the occasion. Superintendent James C. Adams said. Open house will be held in all departments during the day. Registration will open at 9 a.m. A Bar-B-Que dinner will be served at noon.

Tours will be conducted at 1:30 p.m. to observe research work on gravity and sprinkler irrigation; irrigated pastures for dairy cattle, rose, chrysanthemum and aster improvement; effects of nitrogen and clipping on cool and warm season grasses; yield and performance of barley and oat varieties, and the relationship of nitrogen and soil moisture on continuous wheat production.

Nebraska Crude Oil Output Down

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Daily average domestic production of crude oil and condensate increased 32,850 barrels to 6,490,100 barrels during the week ended June 12, an Oil and Gas Journal survey showed Tuesday. Nebraska production was down 700 barrels to 18,600.

Vorhies Files For County Commissioner

Ira L. Vorhies, 58, has filed for the Republican nomination for Lancaster County Commissioner in the second district.

He is the third candidate to enter the second district race. Already filed are Del Lienemann and Marshall G. Stahnke.

Vorhies, who served a 1946-50 term as county commissioner, was defeated for re-election by Chauncey E. Barney.

Barney has announced he will not seek re-election.

With about 28 years in public service, Vorhies has served as a deputy sheriff, clerk of the County Court for 10 years, state athletic commissioner, and junior examiner in the State Auditor's office.

In filing, Vorhies stated "I feel that my many years of experience in public office and private business should be an asset to Lancaster County taxpayers."

"If elected," he said, "I will endeavor to hold down expenses in county business, thereby reducing taxes."

A Lincoln resident for 44 years, Vorhies is a laundry owner and has an interest in a dry cleaning establishment.

Vorhies is grand chancellor commander of the Knights of Pythias in Nebraska a past commander of VFW Post 1450, and a Mason.

He is married and has three grown children.

Road Department Buying Power Down, Ress Says

The Highway Department is taking in more dollars than in 1940, but because of the rise in prices, it actually has less in terms of prewar purchasing power, State Engineer L. N. Ress said Tuesday.

The department had $3,662,140 available for construction and matching federal aid in 1940, after taking care of overhead and maintenance, Ress explained.

The sum available for construction and federal aid matching last year, after overhead and maintenance, was $7,367,666. But in terms of purchasing power, the department could do $3,929,334 worth of work with what it had in 1940, and only $3,292,076 last year, Ress explained.

He said this situation refutes a recent statement by H. H. Hahn, secretary of the Nebraska Petroleum Marketers Association, who gave figures indicating 148 per cent increase in gasoline tax revenue in the 13-year period.

Look at the Record—They All Won with Mobil Oil

1953 BILL VUKOVICH 128.74 mph average

1952 TROY RUTTMAN 128.92 mph—a new record

1951 LEE WALLARD 126.24 mph average—a new record

THE BIG RACE is over—but they're still talking about the results. For the fourth year in a row the winner won with Mobil Oil! And it's no coincidence!

This super-detergent oil is scientifically designed to drastically reduce engine wear. In fact, there's more engine protection built into world-famous Mobil Oil than the average driver will ever need.

Speedway or parkway—Mobil Oil can't be beat for engine protection.

Corn Progress In State Generally Good

Corn made good progress in Nebraska last week under the high temperatures and adequate moisture except for a local area in the southwest part of the state, the Agricultural Statistics Division reported Tuesday.

"Practically all of the corn has been cultivated once, and some of it twice," the report continued.

Locally heavy rains necessitated some further replanting in Eastern Nebraska.

Strong winds in Southwestern Nebraska, particularly Dundy County, covered up some of the corn in the listed rows. Some corn burned from the effects of high temperatures, wind and inadequate moisture.

Practically all of the corn has been planted, excepting in three southeastern counties which reported only 80 per cent planted up to last Saturday.

Wheat also made good progress last week, except in Central Nebraska north of the Platte River and Southwestern Nebraska, where high temperatures and winds were detrimental. Some of the wheat in those areas began to show deterioration.

Severe hail storms damaged considerable areas of wheat in the southern Panhandle, particularly Kimball County. Morrill and Garden County wheat also suffered damage from hail.

But except for the damaged areas, wheat is very promising, the report continued. If weather is favorable, harvesting could begin before the close of the month.

Reports on spring small grain continued favorable. About three-fourths of the sorghum crop has been planted.

The rye crop is promising. The condition of tame hay, wild hay and pasture continued unchanged. Harvesting of the first crop of alfalfa was nearing completion in the southeastern part of the state, and the crop was about ready to harvest in Western Nebraska.

Pastures are still good excepting in some of the drier areas.

Precipitation throughout Nebraska for the past week included:

| Area | Amount |
|----------------------|--------|
| Grand Island | 1.05 |
| Lincoln | .50 |
| Thurwell | .21 |
| Lexington | .21 |
| Chadron | .02 |
| Average past week | 1.00 |
| Total since April 1 | 8.35 |
| Normal since April 1 | 8.44 |

Norton Marks 34th Boys Town Year

BOYS TOWN, Neb., (AP)—Patrick J. Norton Tuesday reached the end of his 34th year of service with Father Flanagan's Boys Home, which he joined June 15, 1920.

Norton is business manager of Boys Town, founded by his uncle, the late Msgr. Edward J. Flanagan. From a struggling little orphanage in Omaha, Boys Town has grown to a world renowned haven for homeless and underprivileged boys.

At 56, Norton is still fit and active.

Omaha Will Host Veterinarian Meet

OMAHA (AP)—A two-day session of the American Veterinary Medical Assn. will open Wednesday at the Swift & Co. plant and the Livestock Exchange Building in South Omaha.

Representatives of the major American and Canadian veterinary colleges are expected to attend the meeting, the purpose of which is to promote a higher degree of efficiency in meat and poultry inspection.

The veterinarians are slated to tour the Swift poultry plant Thursday and the Hormel Meat Packing plant in Fremont.
